Ford Company Strike Set For Noon Tomorrow

Union Reports "No Progress" On Two Issues

Conferences Will Be Resumed Today

DETROIT, Aug. 3—(AP)—CIO United Auto Workers ended eight hours of bargaining today with an announcement that only a last-minute truce could stave off a strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Company production workers at Tuesday noon.

The union announced the strike deadline for 46 Ford plants across the nation after turning down several new proposals on the two issues in dispute.

While the union called both a dispute over contract protection under the Taft-Hartley law and a proposed pension plan "major issues," company officials said the former issue was the only important factor.

Negotiators said they would resume conferences at 9:30 a. m. (EST) Monday, a little more than 24 hours before the scheduled walkout.

Richard T. Leonard, UAW vice president and National Ford director, said "no progress" was made at a meeting which continued throughout the afternoon and into the night.

Leonard Is Pessimistic

Leonard said, as he announced the strike deadline, that "we are no closer together than we were before."

Asked if there were any hopes of averting a strike, Leonard replied:

"If we took the company's attitude, the answer would be no."

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president in charge of industrial relations, said the question of protection against liability damage suits had been given "top priority" by the union.

Recently, he added, the UAW had made the Taft-Hartley issue a "must" and "an ultimatum."

Bugas said the company made these proposals at today's session, devoted almost exclusively to the Taft-Hartley dispute:

That a three-man board be established to determine whether the union should be sued for "illegal strikes."

That a four-man committee, made up of two company and two union appointees, be named to determine union liability under the Taft-Hartley Act. A fifth member—the impartial umpire under the company-union contract in case of disagreement—would be called in if the four-man committee couldn't reach a unanimous decision in three months.

"Renege" Charge Denied By Ford

This proposal provided further:

"The committee (with five members) shall continue its efforts to arrive at a solution for an additional three-month period, if neces-

Philippines Movement To Aid Indonesia Grows

MANILA, Aug. 3. (AP)—As the United Nations moved to halt hostilities in Indonesia, a student movement was developing rapidly in the Philippines today to form a "Rizal Brigade" to support the Indonesian Republic with arms and troops.

Jose Rizal was the great revolutionary hero of the Philippines under Spanish rule.

The effect of the United Nations action on the Philippine movement remains to be seen, but a pro-Indonesia league already has been organized, headed by Benjamin Osias, young Manila newspaperman.

Rallies at the University of the Philippines, Santo Tomas University and Far Eastern University are scheduled for the coming week.

WORLD'S ONLY EMPEROR PENGUIN IN CAPTIVITY DIES OF BROKEN HEART

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—A penguin may look like a stuffed shirt — a tuxedo shirt, that is—but still there beats a sentimental heart beneath his white front.

So reports Malcolm Davis, assistant headkeeper of the Washington Zoo, in telling of the death today of the world's only emperor penguin in captivity.

His mate died last April in the refrigerated penguin house at the zoo.

Davis said the penguin just up and died of a broken heart.

Missing Chinese Transport Sought

NANKING, Aug. 3 (AP) — Chinese Air Force headquarters sent a special search plane from Nanking today to join the hunt for a Chinese military transport missing in distant Sinkiang Province with 26 persons aboard.

Dispatches from Tihwa, capital of Sinkiang, said the passengers included Barbara Stephens, 23, freelance newspaper correspondent from Arlington, Va., and Brian Sorensen, 23, British relief worker and son of Rev. Reginald Sorensen, member of Parliament from West Leyton.

The C-47, on a routine flight from Tihwa to Lanchow, Kansu Province capital, has been missing since 4:50 a. m. July 31, when its radio suddenly went dead while it was flying some 400 miles northwest of Lanchow.

Chinese officers in both Nanking and Tihwa agreed that if the plane made a forced landing in the Gobi Desert there was a good chance of finding survivors.

FRD'S Son To Testify Today In Plane Probe

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.) today tabbed as possibly "bad judgment" the 1943 night clubbing activities which Elliott Roosevelt will be asked to explain tomorrow to senators investigating Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts.

But Pepper told a reporter he does not think any evidence yet produced before the Senate War Investigating Committee disputes his contention that Hughes' F-11 photo-reconnaissance plane "stands on its own merits."

The committee has heard testimony that a 1943 recommendation of Roosevelt, drafted in the period when he was the guest of Publicity Man John Meyer in a costly round of New York night spots, caused Air Corps' Gen. H. H. Arnold to reverse a previous decision and order 100 of Hughes' planes.

Pepper said while the son of the late President may have used "bad judgment" in accepting entertainment from Hughes' man Meyer, he thinks Roosevelt's report on the F-11 "justifies the Army's acceptance of that ship."

Question Of "Individual Morals"

Elliott was an Air Corps photo reconnaissance officer in Europe during the war. He rose to brigadier general.

"There is a question of individual morals and conduct involved in Roosevelt's acceptance of this entertainment," the Florida Senator said. "The committee has a perfect right to ask him whether it influenced his judgment on the plane.

"But I still haven't seen anything that indicates the plane itself won't stand on its own merits or that there was any fraud, corruption or excessive profits in the contract with the government."

Elliott arrived at National Airport from New York tonight and declined to comment on any of the testimony linking him with the Hughes contract.

"I'll say it all on the witness stand tomorrow," the son of the late President told reporters.

He said his actress-wife, Faye Emerson, was unable to accompany him because she is scheduled to open in a new play at the Cape Play House, Hyannis, Mass.

"She just couldn't get away," he said.

Miss Emerson's name appeared frequently in Meyer's expense account vouchers.

Meyer, whose records show he helped the transcontinental romance which united Roosevelt and Miss Emerson in marriage, also is due to go back on the stand tomorrow to tell more about his expense accounts.

His records list a total of $5,083.79 as paid out of Hughes' money in entertainment of Elliott and his

United Nations Credited With Major Victory

Official Replies Are Awaited By Council

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—The Dutch cease-fire order in Idonesia and announcement of acceptance by the Indonesian republic or the United Nations' call to halt hostilities touched off a wave of optimism today among United Nations officials, who felt the United Nations had achieved a major victory.

Security Council delegates were slow to comment pending receipts of official replies from the Netherlands government and the Indoesian Republic. Their first reaction was one of qualified satisfaction.

The Dutch and Indonesian moves came as a direct result of the Security Council's order to cease hostlities in the first attempt ever made by the United Nations to stop shooting. The Dutch made the truce effective at midnight tomorrow.

Council President Reserves Opinion

Faris El Khoury, of Syria, council president, said the Dutch announcement apparently complied with the council verdict but he reserved his opinion pending examination of official communications. He expressed interest in the Netherlands indication that territory occupied during hostilities would be held.

A top-ranking member of Secretary-General Trygve Lie's staff said:

"If the official reply bears out the cease-fire announcement, the Dutch have fully complied. We are assuming the Indonesians will do likewise."

El Khoury said any replies received here from the Dutch and Indonesians in time for tomorrow's council meeting (3 p. m. EDT) would be taken up as an emergency step. At that time Russia may push its supplementary demand that both sides be ordered to withdraw to positions held when the fighting started.

The council also would have to act on a request from the Indonesian government, reported from Jogjakarta, for the council itself to "continuously supervise" execution of the cease-firing order.

Council To Debate Balkan Issue

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said in a statment that the council's decision on Indonesia is "the first real victory of the United Nations and will enhance its prestige in the whole East."

The council is scheduled to return to its other "shooting" case at tomorrow's session with resumption of debate on Balkan disorders.

A vote is scheduled on Andrei A. Gromyko's Russian counter resolution to the American proposal for a border commission, which he vetoed. The Russian version asks the council to order all foreign troops out of Greece and supervise aid to that country.

Delegates saw no chance of passage of the Gromyko plan and hoped for a short debate to clear the way for discussion of Greece's new complaint which directly accuses Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria of aggression.

Flour Mill Walkout Is Settled At Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—A three-week-old strike that all but paralyzed the largest four milling center in the nation and threatened a shortage of flour throughout the Northeastern United States was ended today.

Stanley J. Bauer, business agent of striking Local 21021 of the AFL Flour Mill Workers, said an agreement had been reached with the five struck mills in a surprise conference called by United States Conciliator O. W. Rider.

Treasury Asserts U. S. And States Both Will Continue Income Taxes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Treasury Department said tonight that it might as well be assumed that both the federal government and the states are going to keep right on imposing income taxes.

It took this view with the realistic argument that both get much of their revenue from this source.

In stepping into the politically-warming discussion of federal-state tax relations, the Treasury ignored a suggestion by Republican Presidential Possibility Thomas E. Dewey for dividing up the tax fields.

The Treasury said that conflicts between state and federal income taxes are "not as broad as appears at first sight." It also said that there is much to be said for the idea of having a joint federal-state income tax return and single administration of collection—with the federal and state governments sharing the revenue.

Nowhere in a 60-page study it produced on federal-state tax relations did the Treasury take any notice of Gov. Dewey's remarks at the governors' conference last month recommending that:

The states completely surrender their-income-taxing authority to the federal government in exchange for sole power to impose certain excise taxes, such as cigaret and gasoline levies, which both the federal and state governments now collect.

But the Treasury had its own say on tobacco and gasoline taxing, along with a lot of other subjects, and it boiled down to this:

1. "The administration of state tobacco taxes is more difficult and costly than federal administration" because the federal tax is collected from the relatively few manufacturers while the states have to collect from wholesalers, retailers and even retail consumers.

2. As to gasoline taxation, "the consequences of dual taxation are perhaps less serious than in almost any other in the realm of federal-state duplication."

Pittsburgh Explosion Death Toll Reaches Six

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3 (AP) — The deaths of three seriously-burned workers in a hospital today raised to six the death toll in a fire and explosion yesterday at the carbon plant of the Pitsburgh Coke and Chemical Company at nearby Neville Island.

Two other persons, one a volunteer fireman, were hurt.

The dead were:

Joseph Milk, 29, Joseph Weiss, 48, and James McGrady, 48, all of Carnegie, Pa.; James Voletta, 23, Crafton, Pa.; John Molynarski, 31, McKees Rocks, Pa.; and Joseph Showalt, 45, Coraopolis, Pa.

Reports Of New British Crisis Cause Surprise

May Force Review Of "Partnership"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—Reports of a new British financial crisis, apparently taking American officials by surprise, may force a review soon of the whole state of American-British "partnership" in world affairs.

Authorities here said today that if the British situation is as grave as pictured in reports coming from London during the past week then the emergency in which the United States finds itself may be very great indeed.

However, the first aim of these authorities was described as being to get all the facts. Up to this point they have consistently taken the position that while Britain would need additional help in dollars fairly soon the Marshall plan for European recovery could be put through soon enough to provide that help.

Attlee's Report Awaited

Great importance is attached here to British Prime Minister Attlee's expected report during the coming week on the British crisis and exactly what his government plans to do about it.

Meanwhile, American authorities feel that the first great question raised by Britain's predicament is a question of dollars but that the second and more fundamental issue is a question of production. In general they take a pessimistic view of the Britain long term future unless Britain's production, especially of essentials such as coal, can be built up much more rapidly in the future than it has in the past.

This is in line with the thinking of top officials here in connection with the Marshall plan. They describe themselves as willing to seek congressional approval for every dollar of American assistance to Europe which can be properly justified but insist that the basis for justification must be Europe's determination to help itself. That, in essence, is the Marshall plan.

"Justifiable" Measures

Thus, the American view of Attlee's forthcoming report will be concerned probably more with what he wants Britain to do about its own problem than what he thinks the United States ought to do about it. Nevertheless, it is evident from discussions with responsible officials that if there are "justifiable" measures which America can take to help the British hold out pending completion of the Marshall plan those measures probably will be taken.

ODOM DELAYS START OF WORLD FLIGHT DUE TO "CROSSED WIRE"

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—(AP)—William Odom postponed the takeof his solo, globe-circling flight, scheduled for today at International Airport until tomorrow because of a "crossed wire" in the insulation system which Odom's backer, Milton Reynolds, said would take several hours to check.

For four hours after the scheduled 2 p. m. departure time, mechanics worked on the "Bombshell" before it was announced that the takeoff had been postponed until 2 p. m. Monday.

Odom, who had arrived here from Teterboro, N. J., airport at 3:15 CDT, today, slept on a cot in a plane which was parked near the "Bombshell."

"The flight is definitely on for tomorrow," Reynolds told newsmen. "I'm sure we'll have the plane in perfect shape for the time of the takeoff."

President Visits Children's Camp

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP) — President Truman paid a surprise visit to a camp for crippled children today not far from the Maryland mountain camp, "Shangri-La," where he has been spending the weekend.

Details of the President's day in the Catoctin Mountains were reported here by Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary.

Mr. Truman arose at 7:30 a. m., had breakfast an hour later and after reading the morning papers, drove to the children's camp about a mile away.

Known as Camp Greentop, it is operated by the Maryland League for Crippled Children.

Although they had but 15 minutes notice that the President would call upon them, the children were lined up in the camp area when he arrived, driving himself in a convertible. He was accompanied by Adm. William D. Leahy, his chief of staff; Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, and John R. Steelman, presidential advisor.

Mr. Truman told the 106 children, after they had welcomed him with a song, that he was a neighbor of theirs. He added that he was very glad to be able to come over and see them.

The President spent about half an hour at the camp, making an inspection tour with Ernest Marx, the camp director, and Miss Mary Church, executive director for the Maryland League for Crippled children.

Baltimore Taxpayers Oppose Special Session

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3—(AP)—"The city can make out through 1948 on the monies available," the Baltimore City Taxpayers Association claimed in opposing a special session of the General Assembly to vote Baltimore special taxing powers.

The association issued a statement declaring "the state has carried through its fiscal program to aid the city."

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and city officials previously announced they would ask Gov. Lane to call a special session of the Legislature to renew special taxing powers expiring the end of this year.

Underground Threat

JERUSALEM, Aug 4 (AP)—Jewish extremists threatened tonight to hang more British citizens. A statement issued by the underground said that "we have not yet settled our hanging account with the British."

Australia Will Insist That Japs Pay Reparations

Would Insure Peace, Envoy To U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Australia's ambassador to the United States said today his country will insist on reparations from Japan's industrial plant in the hope of removing Nipponese power to make war ever again.

She will also demand, he said, that the forthcoming Japanese peace treaty talks set up an Allied system of control and inspection over Japanese life to insure a peaceful nation.

Supports U.S. Treaty Proposal

Just how long Japan will have to be supervised by the Allies, the ambassador, Norman J. O. Makin, was not prepared to say. But he did tell an interviewer today his government feels the Allies must remain in Japan until the war potential, both in physical plant and psychological attitudes, has been reduced to zero. "And that must depend on the good faith and behavior of the Japanese people themselves," he said.

He outlined his government's stand as follows:

1. An early peace settlement must be negotiated. Australia must play a "primary part" in the talks. Hence, Australia is pleased with the recent suggestion from the United States that the Japanese peace treaty be ironed out by an 11-nation conference where decisions would be taken by a two-thirds vote.

Ban On Planes, Warships

2. Australia will ask that Japan be permanently prohibited from owning any naval or military aircraft, and prohibited from manufacturing or operating even civil aircraft during the period of Allied control. Australia will ask the right to operate airlines to and within Japan.

3. Australia will want to be consulted fully when the Japanese fleet is finally allocated among the Allies.

4. She will not press for reparations that would cripple Japanese economy, Makin said. But she will want the Japanese "war potential removed."

Jap Flood Damage Mounts

TOKYO, Aug. 3—(AP)—Fresh torrential rains have caused additional heavy damage in Northwestern Japan.

A three-day downpour ending this morning wrecked bridges and flooded farms in six prefectures, including Akita, where a storm last week killed 17 persons.

Both Sides Are Ready To Abide By U. N. Order

Duth Cease-Fire Ordered For Today

BATAVIA, Java, Aug. 3—(AP)—Both the Dutch and the Indonesian Republic announced tonight they were willing to abide by the call of the United Nations Security Council for a cessation of hostilities in the East Indies.

Acting Gov. Gen. Hubertus J. Van Mook ordered Dutch troops in the rich Pacific islands to cease firing at midnight tomorrow night (noon Monday, Eastern Standard Time).

The Republican government, in a formal statement signed by Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin, declared it was "agreeable to a cessation of hostilities and this cessation of hostilities can be effected."

The announcements from both sides marked the first positive result for a direct attempt by the United Nations to halt a conflict.

While Van Mook by his order moved to comply with the demand of the Security Council, the ranking Dutch official in the East Indies declared his government remained convinced the council's resolution "constitutes an interference in the internal affairs" of the Netherlands kingdom.

Arbitration Disagreement

There still was disagreement on the question of arbitration. Van Mook emphasized that the Netherlands had accepted the good offices of the United States to bring about a settlement of the conflict between the Dutch and the Indonesians after the cease fire comes into force.

The Republican government, however, expressed a desire for arbitration by several nations—an apparent indication that mediation by the United States alone was not supported by the Indonesians.

The Republic also formally requested the Security Council to "continuously supervise the execution" of the cease fire. The Republic said it was "prepared to concert all its efforts for the execution of the cessation of hostilities."

Van Mook told radio listeners:

"I am sure the present orders will be executed (by Dutch forces) with promptitude and common sense and with assurance born from the righteousness of our cause."

Indicating the Dutch expect to retain control of at least some Republican areas overrun by Netherlands troops in recent fighting, Van Mook said: "As soon as reports make it possible, those parts of Java and Sumatra where the Netherlands government will take over direct responsibility for law and order will be clearly indicated."

Doubts Republic Can Enforce Order

The Republic wants Dutch troops withdrawn to positions they held before hostilities began July 20.

Addressing the people of the East Indies and Holland, Van Mook emphasized that the Dutch doubted whether the Indonesian Republic would be able to enforce a cease-fire among its forces.

Regarding the Security Council's action taken Friday at Lake Success, N. Y., Van Mook said:

"Although the Netherlands government remains convinced that there is no ground for intervention by the United Nations Security Council in this case because Article 39 of the United Nations Charter does not apply and that the resolution (passed by the council) constitutes an interference in the in-

400 Reported Killed In Indonesia Train Crash

MEDAN, Sumatra, Aug. 3 (AP)—Dutch sources estimated today that at least 400 Indonesians were killed in a train wreck which occurred last week as Netherlands troops swept into Pematangsiantar, 50 miles south of Medan.

The accident was said to have occurred when the passengers on one train, terror-stricken by the Dutch drive in Northern Sumatra, ordered the train crew to proceed without a signal. Their train ran into another traveling in the opposite direction.

Steel Worker Repudiates Statement He Raped And Killed 5-Year-Old Girl

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP)—John Henry Fay, 33-year-old Marcus Hook, Pa., steel worker, repudiated a statement in which he admitted the rape-slaying of five-year-old Carol Ann Thompson, Detective Albert Murphy, of Montgomery County, said today.

Murphy described what he termed a 150-mile "wild goose chase" through woodlands of Chester and Montgomery Counties during which Fay made a vain attempt to reenact the crime.

Fay pointed out locations where he said he killed the daughter of a Lansdale, Pa., carpenter but when pressed for more detail by detectives, the slight balding steelworker changed his mind about the whole affair, Murphy reported.

When told by detectives that the child's body was found in a well, Fay became further confused, Murphy said.

The detective declared that when the party arrived at the well, Fay broke down and blurted out that he had never seen Carol Ann.

Fay was brought here ostensibly to re-enact the crime which District Attorney Artemus C. Leslie, of Allegheny County, said the steel worker admitted in a signed statement. Leslie quoted Fay as telling how he lured the little girl to a country road near Norristown last May 10 and raped her.

Fay said, Leslie continued, the little girl screamed and he placed his hand over her mouth.

"I guess I held my hand there too long," Leslie quoted Fay as saying.

No charges have been filed against Fay in the Thompson child case, authorities said, but he is being held on charges he raped and assaulted a five-year-old girl several days ago at McKeesport, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

FRD'S Son To Testify Today In Plane Probe

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.) today tabbed as possibly "bad judgment" the 1943 night clubbing activities which Elliott Roosevelt will be asked to explain tomorrow to senators investigating Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts.

But Pepper told a reporter he does not think any evidence yet produced before the Senate War Investigating Committee disputes his contention that Hughes' F-11 photo-reconnaissance plane "stands on its own merits."

The committee has heard testimony that a 1943 recommendation of Roosevelt, drafted in the period when he was the guest of Publicity Man John Meyer in a costly round of New York night spots, caused Air Corps' Gen. H. H. Arnold to reverse a previous decision and order 100 of Hughes' planes.

Pepper said while the son of the late President may have used "bad judgment" in accepting entertainment from Hughes' man Meyer, he thinks Roosevelt's report on the F-11 "justifies the Army's acceptance of that ship."

Question Of "Individual Morals"

"There is a question of individual morals and conduct involved in Roosevelt's acceptance of this entertainment," the Florida Senator said. "The committee has a perfect right to ask him whether it influenced his judgment on the plane.

"But I still haven't seen anything that indicates the plane itself won't stand on its own merits or that there was any fraud, corruption or excessive profits in the contract with the government."

Elliott arrived at National Airport from New York tonight and declined to comment on any of the testimony linking him with the Hughes contract.

"I'll say it all on the witness stand tomorrow," the son of the late President told reporters.

He said his actress-wife, Faye Emerson, was unable to accompany him because she is scheduled to open in a new play at the Cape Play House, Hyannis, Mass.

"She just couldn't get away," he said.

Miss Emerson's name appeared frequently in Meyer's expense account vouchers.

Meyer, whose records show he helped the transcontinental romance which united Roosevelt and Miss Emerson in marriage, also is due to go back on the stand tomorrow to tell more about his expense accounts.

His records list a total of $5,083.79 as paid out of Hughes' money in entertainment of Elliott and his

Official Replies Are Awaited By Council

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—The Dutch cease-fire order in Idonesia and announcement of acceptance by the Indonesian republic or the United Nations' call to halt hostilities touched off a wave of optimism today among United Nations officials, who felt the United Nations had achieved a major victory.

Security Council delegates were slow to comment pending receipts of official replies from the Netherlands government and the Indonesian Republic. Their first reaction was one of qualified satisfaction.

The Dutch and Indonesian moves came as a direct result of the Security Council's order to cease hostilities in the first attempt ever made by the United Nations to stop shooting. The Dutch made the truce effective at midnight tomorrow.

Council President Reserves Opinion

Faris El Khoury, of Syria, council president, said the Dutch announcement apparently complied with the council verdict but he reserved his opinion pending examination of official communications. He expressed interest in the Netherlands indication that territory occupied during hostilities would be held.

A top-ranking member of Secretary-General Trygve Lie's staff said:

"If the official reply bears out the cease-fire announcement, the Dutch have fully complied. We are assuming the Indonesians will do likewise."

El Khoury said any replies received here from the Dutch and Indonesians in time for tomorrow's council meeting (3 p. m. EDT) would be taken up as an emergency step. At that time Russia may push its supplementary demand that both sides be ordered to withdraw to positions held when the fighting started.

The council also would have to act on a request from the Indonesian government, reported from Jogjakarta, for the council itself to "continuously supervise" execution of the cease-firing order.

Council To Debate Balkan Issue

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said in a statment that the council's decision on Indonesia is "the first real victory of the United Nations and will enhance its prestige in the whole East."

The council is scheduled to return to its other "shooting" case at tomorrow's session with resumption of debate on Balkan disorders.

A vote is scheduled on Andrei A. Gromyko's Russian counter resolution to the American proposal for a border commission, which he vetoed. The Russian version asks the council to order all foreign troops out of Greece and supervise aid to that country.

Delegates saw no chance of passage of the Gromyko plan and hoped for a short debate to clear the way for discussion of Greece's new complaint which directly accuses Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria of aggression.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—A three-week-old strike that all but paralyzed the largest four milling center in the nation and threatened a shortage of flour throughout the Northeastern United States was ended today.

Stanley J. Bauer, business agent of striking Local 21021 of the AFL Flour Mill Workers, said an agreement had been reached with the five struck mills in a surprise conference called by United States Conciliator O. W. Rider.

Reports Of New British Crisis Cause Surprise

May Force Review Of "Partnership"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—Reports of a new British financial crisis, apparently taking American officials by surprise, may force a review soon of the whole state of American-British "partnership" in world affairs.

Authorities here said today that if the British situation is as grave as pictured in reports coming from London during the past week then the emergency in which the United States finds itself may be very great indeed.

However, the first aim of these authorities was described as being to get all the facts. Up to this point they have consistently taken the position that while Britain would need additional help in dollars fairly soon the Marshall plan for European recovery could be put through soon enough to provide that help.

Attlee's Report Awaited

Great importance is attached here to British Prime Minister Attlee's expected report during the coming week on the British crisis and exactly what his government plans to do about it.

Meanwhile, American authorities feel that the first great question raised by Britain's predicament is a question of dollars but that the second and more fundamental issue is a question of production. In general they take a pessimistic view of the Britain long term future unless Britain's production, especially of essentials such as coal, can be built up much more rapidly in the future than it has in the past.

This is in line with the thinking of top officials here in connection with the Marshall plan. They describe themselves as willing to seek congressional approval for every dollar of American assistance to Europe which can be properly justified but insist that the basis for justification must be Europe's determination to help itself. That, in essence, is the Marshall plan.

"Justifiable" Measures

Thus, the American view of Attlee's forthcoming report will be concerned probably more with what he wants Britain to do about its own problem than what he thinks the United States ought to do about it. Nevertheless, it is evident from discussions with responsible officials that if there are "justifiable" measures which America can take to help the British hold out pending completion of the Marshall plan those measures probably will be taken.

ODOM DELAYS START OF WORLD FLIGHT DUE TO "CROSSED WIRE"

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—(AP)—William Odom postponed the takeof his solo, globe-circling flight, scheduled for today at International Airport until tomorrow because of a "crossed wire" in the insulation system which Odom's backer, Milton Reynolds, said would take several hours to check.

For four hours after the scheduled 2 p. m. departure time, mechanics worked on the "Bombshell" before it was announced that the takeoff had been postponed until 2 p. m. Monday.

Odom, who had arrived here from Teterboro, N. J., airport at 3:15 CDT, today, slept on a cot in a plane which was parked near the "Bombshell."

"The flight is definitely on for tomorrow," Reynolds told newsmen. "I'm sure we'll have the plane in perfect shape for the time of the takeoff."

President Visits Children's Camp

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP) — President Truman paid a surprise visit to a camp for crippled children today not far from the Maryland mountain camp, "Shangri-La," where he has been spending the weekend.

Details of the President's day in the Catoctin Mountains were reported here by Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary.

Mr. Truman arose at 7:30 a. m., had breakfast an hour later and after reading the morning papers, drove to the children's camp about a mile away.

Known as Camp Greentop, it is operated by the Maryland League for Crippled Children.

Although they had but 15 minutes notice that the President would call upon them, the children were lined up in the camp area when he arrived, driving himself in a convertible. He was accompanied by Adm. William D. Leahy, his chief of staff; Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, and John R. Steelman, presidential advisor.

Mr. Truman told the 106 children, after they had welcomed him with a song, that he was a neighbor of theirs. He added that he was very glad to be able to come over and see them.

The President spent about half an hour at the camp, making an inspection tour with Ernest Marx, the camp director, and Miss Mary Church, executive director for the Maryland League for Crippled children.

Baltimore Taxpayers Oppose Special Session

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3—(AP)—"The city can make out through 1948 on the monies available," the Baltimore City Taxpayers Association claimed in opposing a special session of the General Assembly to vote Baltimore special taxing powers.

The association issued a statement declaring "the state has carried through its fiscal program to aid the city."

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and city officials previously announced they would ask Gov. Lane to call a special session of the Legislature to renew special taxing powers expiring the end of this year.

Both Sides Are Ready To Abide By U. N. Order

Duth Cease-Fire Ordered For Today

BATAVIA, Java, Aug. 3—(AP)—Both the Dutch and the Indonesian Republic announced tonight they were willing to abide by the call of the United Nations Security Council for a cessation of hostilities in the East Indies.

Acting Gov. Gen. Hubertus J. Van Mook ordered Dutch troops in the rich Pacific islands to cease firing at midnight tomorrow night (noon Monday, Eastern Standard Time).

The Republican government, in a formal statement signed by Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin, declared it was "agreeable to a cessation of hostilities and this cessation of hostilities can be effected."

The announcements from both sides marked the first positive result for a direct attempt by the United Nations to halt a conflict.

While Van Mook by his order moved to comply with the demand of the Security Council, the ranking Dutch official in the East Indies declared his government remained convinced the council's resolution "constitutes an interference in the internal affairs" of the Netherlands kingdom.

Arbitration Disagreement

There still was disagreement on the question of arbitration. Van Mook emphasized that the Netherlands had accepted the good offices of the United States to bring about a settlement of the conflict between the Dutch and the Indonesians after the cease fire comes into force.

The Republican government, however, expressed a desire for arbitration by several nations—an apparent indication that mediation by the United States alone was not supported by the Indonesians.

The Republic also formally requested the Security Council to "continuously supervise the execution" of the cease fire. The Republic said it was "prepared to concert all its efforts for the execution of the cessation of hostilities."

Van Mook told radio listeners:

"I am sure the present orders will be executed (by Dutch forces) with promptitude and common sense and with assurance born from the righteousness of our cause."

Indicating the Dutch expect to retain control of at least some Republican areas overrun by Netherlands troops in recent fighting, Van Mook said: "As soon as reports make it possible, those parts of Java and Sumatra where the Netherlands government will take over direct responsibility for law and order will be clearly indicated."

Doubts Republic Can Enforce Order

The Republic wants Dutch troops withdrawn to positions they held before hostilities began July 20.

Addressing the people of the East Indies and Holland, Van Mook emphasized that the Dutch doubted whether the Indonesian Republic would be able to enforce a cease-fire among its forces.

Regarding the Security Council's action taken Friday at Lake Success, N. Y., Van Mook said:

"Although the Netherlands government remains convinced that there is no ground for intervention by the United Nations Security Council in this case because Article 39 of the United Nations Charter does not apply and that the resolution (passed by the council) constitutes an interference in the in-

Australia Will Insist That Japs Pay Reparations

Would Insure Peace, Envoy To U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Australia's ambassador to the United States said today his country will insist on reparations from Japan's industrial plant in the hope of removing Nipponese power to make war ever again.

She will also demand, he said, that the forthcoming Japanese peace treaty talks set up an Allied system of control and inspection over Japanese life to insure a peaceful nation.

Supports U.S. Treaty Proposal

Just how long Japan will have to be supervised by the Allies, the ambassador, Norman J. O. Makin, was not prepared to say. But he did tell an interviewer today his government feels the Allies must remain in Japan until the war potential, both in physical plant and psychological attitudes, has been reduced to zero. "And that must depend on the good faith and behavior of the Japanese people themselves," he said.

He outlined his government's stand as follows:

1. An early peace settlement must be negotiated. Australia must play a "primary part" in the talks. Hence, Australia is pleased with the recent suggestion from the United States that the Japanese peace treaty be ironed out by an 11-nation conference where decisions would be taken by a two-thirds vote.

Ban On Planes, Warships

2. Australia will ask that Japan be permanently prohibited from owning any naval or military aircraft, and prohibited from manufacturing or operating even civil aircraft during the period of Allied control. Australia will ask the right to operate airlines to and within Japan.

3. Australia will want to be consulted fully when the Japanese fleet is finally allocated among the Allies.

4. She will not press for reparations that would cripple Japanese economy, Makin said. But she will want the Japanese "war potential removed."

Jap Flood Damage Mounts

TOKYO, Aug. 3—(AP)—Fresh torrential rains have caused additional heavy damage in Northwestern Japan.

A three-day downpour ending this morning wrecked bridges and flooded farms in six prefectures, including Akita, where a storm last week killed 17 persons.

400 Reported Killed In Indonesia Train Crash

MEDAN, Sumatra, Aug. 3 (AP)—Dutch sources estimated today that at least 400 Indonesians were killed in a train wreck which occurred last week as Netherlands troops swept into Pematangsiantar, 50 miles south of Medan.

The accident was said to have occurred when the passengers on one train, terror-stricken by the Dutch drive in Northern Sumatra, ordered the train crew to proceed without a signal. Their train ran into another traveling in the opposite direction.

Steel Worker Repudiates Statement He Raped And Killed 5-Year-Old Girl

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP)—John Henry Fay, 33-year-old Marcus Hook, Pa., steel worker, repudiated a statement in which he admitted the rape-slaying of five-year-old Carol Ann Thompson, Detective Albert Murphy, of Montgomery County, said today.

Murphy described what he termed a 150-mile "wild goose chase" through woodlands of Chester and Montgomery Counties during which Fay made a vain attempt to reenact the crime.

Fay pointed out locations where he said he killed the daughter of a Lansdale, Pa., carpenter but when pressed for more detail by detectives, the slight balding steelworker changed his mind about the whole affair, Murphy reported.

When told by detectives that the child's body was found in a well, Fay became further confused, Murphy said.

The detective declared that when the party arrived at the well, Fay broke down and blurted out that he had never seen Carol Ann.

Fay was brought here ostensibly to re-enact the crime which District Attorney Artemus C. Leslie, of Allegheny County, said the steel worker admitted in a signed statement. Leslie quoted Fay as telling how he lured the little girl to a country road near Norristown last May 10 and raped her.

Fay said, Leslie continued, the little girl screamed and he placed his hand over her mouth.

"I guess I held my hand there too long," Leslie quoted Fay as saying.

No charges have been filed against Fay in the Thompson child case, authorities said, but he is being held on charges he raped and assaulted a five-year-old girl several days ago at McKeesport, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

"Streamlined" Congress Finds Favor With GOP

Democrats Demand Changes In New Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — (AP) — A Democratic demand arose today in the Senate for "lots" of changes in the reorganization law which has had a seven months trial in making Congress more efficient.

But Republican leaders said they expect to carry through the 1948 session with the law as passed last year. They said they like it enough after a seven months' trial not to change it yet.

Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.), the party's whip, and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of its Senate Policy Committee, contend that more actual operating experience is needed under the new plan before revisions are undertaken.

Fewer Committees

The law whacked off a number of committees, called for fixing a federal spending ceiling (which never was agreed on), set a suggested adjournment date (which stood), provided special assistants, ordered new committee practices, raised Congressmen's salaries and made other changes—aimed at making Congress more businesslike.

Adopted under a Democratic leadership, but conceived on a bipartisan basis, the plan went into operation after the Republicans had seized the majority.

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.) said today that he and other Democrats who supported the streamlining plan believe "we had better try and improve upon it as soon as possible in lots of ways."

Wherry told a reporter, however, "I think we will go through the new session without trying any amendments."

"After all it took us quite a little time to get reorganized under the new plan," Wherry said. "That actually delayed us at the start."

Wherry said that when Congress meets again in January "everything should be much smoother."

Too Much Overlap, Pepper Says

"We have our committees set up under the new plan," he said. "We have our staffs organized and things should operate with ease from the beginning."

Pepper said that success of the streamlining plan to date is questionable.

"We still have too many committees and too much overlap between this work and the actual Senate sessions," he said. "I know that during the recent session most senators had two and three committee sessions running at the same time."

Pepper said it should be possible to organize the legislative machinery so that senators are not supposed to be sitting in a Senate session and committee hearings at the same moment.

Three Maryland Cities May Be On New Highway

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Location of Baltimore, Hagerstown and Frederick on 270 miles of new roads is included in a proposed supernetwork of interstate highways outlined by the Public Roads Administration.

The Maryland roads will be part of a four-lane network that will cover the nation and cross into Canada and Mexico. The program calls for express highways in every section of the country and Annapolis is one of only six state capital cities that won't benefit.

Annapolis was omitted, the roads administration said, because of its "out-of-the-way" location.

The Maryland highways would go through Baltimore, beginning in Washington and going to Wilmington, Del.; Baltimore to Harrisburg, Pa.; Baltimore to Frederick; Washington to Frederick and Hagerstown, thence northwest out of the state to Harrisburg, and down the Virginia valley to Hagerstown.

ures in view of the country's economic crisis appeared in most London newspapers today.

Official quarters declined comment.

The almost invariably well-informed London Observer said it now "looks as if" nationalization of iron and steel, scheduled for action in Parliament next Octiber, will be dropped.

"The question was discussed by the Cabinet last week and although nothing was finally decided the opinion was strongly expressed that this was not the time to nationalize the industry," the Observer said.

Failure to go ahead with nationalizing iron and steel, gas and electricity and other items on its program undoubtedly would bring severe criticism from many government supporters, who hold that socialism must be achieved quickly to put the country's economy on a permanently strong basis.

The Republic's statement said cessation of hostilities could be carried out effectively only if Dutch and Indonesian armed forces were "withdrawn behind demarkation lines fixed by both sides" last October 14.

Three Youths Are Killed In Clubhouse Explosion

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 3. (AP) — Three high school boys were burned to death early today and a fourth was reported near death after a series of explosions and a fire destroyed their back yard clubhouse.

The dead are Howard Phelps, 16; Harry L. Culp, 18, and John L. Hinner, 17, residents of the village of Tilton, two miles southwest of here. All attended Danville High School

Paul Phelps, 17, a brother of Howard, who was graduated from high school in June, was hospitalized with first and second degree burns covering most of his body. He was not expected to live.

John D. Cole, Vermilion County coroner, said neighbors of the Phelps family in whose back yard the clubhouse was situated, reported hearing four explosions about 3 a. m. The cause of the blasts was not immediately determined, Cole said.

Family Feud Leads To Fatal Shooting

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 3—(AP)—A 38-year-old miner who calmly ate his dinner while he described to police the shooting of his neighbor in an outgrowth of quarrels between their children tonight was held in Fayette County jail.

Assistant County Detective Lawrence Haggerty said Paul Johnson would be charged tomorrow with murder in the death of Lester Miller, 34-year-old lumberman of nearby Davidson Hill.

Miller died on the back porch of Johnson's home yesterday from a shotgun blast in the chest which ripped away the right side of his heart.

Haggerty said Johnson waited in the house for police to arrive, then told them:

"I've just changed my clothes. I knew you'd come for me."

The detective said the miner sat down to his evening meal and while eating, recited the particulars of a family feud of more than four years caused by the battling between children in the two families.

Haggerty said Johnson told him he shot Miller with a 12-gauge shotgun after his son, Paul, Jr., 13, shouted to him, "Mr. Miller is breaking the door down."

The detective quoted Johnson as saying he warned Miller to "get off the porch or I'll blow you off," and when Miller retorted, "Come on out, I'm not afraid," he fired the fatal shot.

Anti-Semitic Rioting Continues In England

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 4. (AP)—New anti-Semitic riots broke out in Liverpool and Manchester last night and early today as mobs, enraged by the handing of two British sergeants by the Zionist underground in Palestine, smashed, looted and burned Jewish shops.

Flying squads of police restored order in both cities.

In Manchester, approximately 400 persons surrounded an assembly hall where Jews were holding a dance and kept them penned inside for several hours, while other rioters threw missiles through Jewish store windows and shouted "Down with the Jews."

A few hours earlier, anti-Jewish demonstrations occurred in London where a group smashed six windows in an East End synagogue and a crowd of onlookers shouted threats at participants in a Jewish ex-servicemen's outdoor meeting until police halted the session.

House Group To Consider Ship-Charter Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—Chairman Weichel (R-Ohio) said today the House Merchant Marine Committee will consider this fall a plan to charter ships to Germany and Japan for carrying food themselves—an idea first advanced by Herbert Hoover.

Weichel, who introduced the ship-charter measure at request of the War Department, said the purpose is to effect a substantial economy in supplying food to the two countries. Proponents said it would reduce these nations' dollar expenditures and ease American taxpayer burdens.

Hoover, upon returning from his economic survey of Europe several months ago, suggested that surplus Liberty ships could be used for food transport, manned by German and Japanese crews paid in the currency of their countries.

German POWs, Back From Russia, Unfit For Work

BERLIN, Aug. 3—(AP)—All German prisoners of war returning from Russia into the United States occupation zone of Germany are in such poor physical condition that they are unfit for work and many may never be able to work again, the American Military Government said today.

Rehabilitation to make any of them fit for employment requires three to six months' care in camps on extra food rations provided from foreign relief supplies, an official report added.

The report's 10-line account was believed to be AMG's first official comment on the physical state of German prisoners, now being released by the Russians at an accelerated rate after two years or more of labor. There have, however, been frequent published charges by Germans that the Russians released only prisoners no longer able to work.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.), of the subcommittee conducting the investigation, said he would continue to ask Meyer how his actions in picking up the check for night club champagne and buying nylon hosiery, lipsticks, pocketbooks and other expensive presents for girls helped along wartime plane production.

Hughes-Brewster Feud Continues

The Michigan Senator made a point of that last week when he introduced a statement that Meyer had listed expenses of $169,000 in the period from April, 1942, to January 1, 1947. Ferguson said the Hughes Tool Company, the Hollywood plane builder's parent organization, had charged most of this off against its income tax.

Meantime, the transcontinental argument continued between Hughes and Sen. Brewster (R-Me.), chairman of the full committee.

Brewster said today he hopes to expose "what I would term the whites of his lies" when Hughes takes the stand this week.

In a radio interview, he said he is waiting to see "how far he (Hughes) would be willing to go" in reiterating under oath the charges he has made against Brewster.

Phil Marchildon pitched the fourth place Philadelphia Athletics to a 2-0 triumph over the St. Louis Browns but the visiting Missourians came back to win the second game of the twin bill, 4-3. Marchildon yielded eight hits in his 13th victory while the A's garnered only three off Ellis Kinder and Cliff Fannin. But one of the A's safeties was Eddie Joost's ninth homer of the year with one on in the fifth.

At Washington, Chicago's Frank Papish scattered seven hits to defeat the Senators, 2-1 for his ninth victory.

Merchant, Believing He Was Aiding Cupid, Helped Hitler Rescue Duce

DACHAU, Germany, Aug. 3 (AP)—A romantic Italian merchant who thought he was only playing Cupid helped Adolph Hitler rescue Benito Mussolini, according to a story told here today—three years after the death of the Duce.

The story came from the prison cell of SS Col. Otto Skorzeny, giant paratrooper whose feats made him the most publicized German soldier of the war. The six-foot-five Skorzeny wrote a 42-page account of his abduction of Mussolini on Hitler's orders.

Meeting the press in advance of his trial on charges of violating the laws of war, Skorzeny also denied he ever tried to kidnap Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. But he said he snatched Hungary's Adm. Nicholas Horthy from the advancing Russians.

Skorzeny's personal account of his capture of Mussolini after a crash glider landing high in the Appenines is a lurid tale of 1943 after Italians installed Marshal Badoglio as head of the state.

"He (Hitler) informed me," said Skorzeny, "that he was firmly resolved not to leave his friend Mussolini in the lurch and to prevent under all circumstances his extradition to the Allies. Mussolini was for him not only an ally but he altso called him his one and only great friend, 'the last of the ancient Romans of the Cassarian tradition.'"

Under Gen. Kurt Student, the SS colonel said, he set out with a staff of five to find the Duce, well-hidden by the Badoglio government. Skorzeny scoured Italy for four months. In September, he spoke to an Italian merchant:

"I invented a girl friend from Rome who had fled in fear of Allied bomb attacks and begged him to help me send her a love letter. The Italian informed me that the Gran Sasso valley was entirely cordoned off and that the resort hotel evicted its personnel and the only way of access was out of bounds of all traffic."

The man, still anxious to try to deliver the "love letter," reported to Skorzeny later a rumor that all the secrecy had something to do with Mussolini.

Skorzeny prepared 12 gliders, each with nine men, and took off for the 6,000-foot aerie. The first two crashed almost as soon as they took off.

Behind a cloud bank the others dove on the mountain. Skorzeny landed 50 feet from the hotel. The Italian guards were too surprised to act and "the hotel was surrounded without resistance."

"I reported to Mussolini: 'Duce, the Fuehrer has sent me as a token of his loyal friendship.' Mussolini embraced me and assured that he had daily expected his extradition to the Allies but that he would have put an end to his life before hand."

Skorzeny decided to take off from an improvised field in a Storch plane, built for one or two passengers.

"We almost reached the brink of a cliff when a ditch suddenly cut straight across our path. We hopped over the ditch and coasted over the brink. After a drop of perhaps 1,000 feet the pilot succeeded in gaining control. The plane flew over the valley just above the ground."

In Patica De Mare, they transferred to Luftwaffe transports and flew to Vienna, thence to Hitler's headquarters.

"Streamlined" Congress Finds Favor With GOP

Democrats Demand Changes In New Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — (AP) — A Democratic demand arose today in the Senate for "lots" of changes in the reorganization law which has had a seven months trial in making Congress more efficient.

But Republican leaders said they expect to carry through the 1948 session with the law as passed last year. They said they like it enough after a seven months' trial not to change it yet.

Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.), the party's whip, and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of its Senate Policy Committee, contend that more actual operating experience is needed under the new plan before revisions are undertaken.

Fewer Committees

The law whacked off a number of committees, called for fixing a federal spending ceiling (which never was agreed on), set a suggested adjournment date (which stood), provided special assistants, ordered new committee practices, raised Congressmen's salaries and made other changes—aimed at making Congress more businesslike.

Adopted under a Democratic leadership, but conceived on a bi-partisan basis, the plan went into operation after the Republicans had seized the majority.

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.) said today that he and other Democrats who supported the streamlining plan believe "we had better try and improve upon it as soon as possible in lots of ways."

Wherry told a reporter, however, "I think we will go through the new session without trying any amendments."

"After all it took us quite a little time to get reorganized under the new plan," Wherry said. "That actually delayed us at the start."

Wherry said that when Congress meets again in January "everything should be much smoother."

Too Much Overlap, Pepper Says

"We have our committees set up under the new plan," he said. "We have our staffs organized and things should operate with ease from the beginning."

Pepper said that success of the streamlining plan to date is questionable.

"We still have too many committees and too much overlap between this work and the actual Senate sessions," he said. "I know that during the recent session most senators had two and three committee sessions running at the same time."

Pepper said it should be possible to organize the legislative machinery so that senators are not supposed to be sitting in a Senate session and committee hearings at the same moment.

Three Maryland Cities May Be On New Highway

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Location of Baltimore, Hagerstown and Frederick on 270 miles of new roads is included in a proposed super-network of interstate highways outlined by the Public Roads Administration.

The Maryland roads will be part of a four-lane network that will cover the nation and cross into Canada and Mexico. The program calls for express highways in every section of the country and Annapolis is one of only six state capital cities that won't benefit.

Annapolis was omitted, the roads administration said, because of its "out-of-the-way" location.

The Maryland highways would go through Baltimore, beginning in Washington and going to Wilmington, Del.; Baltimore to Harrisburg, Pa.; Baltimore to Frederick; Washington to Frederick and Hagerstown, thence northwest out of the state to Harrisburg, and down the Virginia valley to Hagerstown.

Official quarters declined comment.

The almost invariably well-informed London Observer said it now "looks as if" nationalization of iron and steel, scheduled for action in Parliament next Octiber, will be dropped.

"The question was discussed by the Cabinet last week and although nothing was finally decided the opinion was strongly expressed that this was not the time to nationalize the industry," the Observer said.

Failure to go ahead with nationalizing iron and steel, gas and electricity and other items on its program undoubtedly would bring severe criticism from many government supporters, who hold that socialism must be achieved quickly to put the country's economy on a permanently strong basis.

Three Youths Are Killed In Clubhouse Explosion

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 3. (AP) — Three high school boys were burned to death early today and a fourth was reported near death after a series of explosions and a fire destroyed their back yard clubhouse.

The dead are Howard Phelps, 16; Harry L. Culp, 18, and John L. Hinner, 17, residents of the village of Tilton, two miles southwest of here. All attended Danville High School

Paul Phelps, 17, a brother of Howard, who was graduated from high school in June, was hospitalized with first and second degree burns covering most of his body. He was not expected to live.

John D. Cole, Vermilion County coroner, said neighbors of the Phelps family in whose back yard the clubhouse was situated, reported hearing four explosions about 3 a. m. The cause of the blasts was not immediately determined, Cole said.

Family Feud Leads To Fatal Shooting

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 3—(AP)—A 38-year-old miner who calmly ate his dinner while he described to police the shooting of his neighbor in an outgrowth of quarrels between their children tonight was held in Fayette County jail.

Assistant County Detective Lawrence Haggerty said Paul Johnson would be charged tomorrow with murder in the death of Lester Miller, 34-year-old lumberman of nearby Davidson Hill.

Miller died on the back porch of Johnson's home yesterday from a shotgun blast in the chest which ripped away the right side of his heart.

Haggerty said Johnson waited in the house for police to arrive, then told them:

"I've just changed my clothes. I knew you'd come for me."

The detective said the miner sat down to his evening meal and while eating, recited the particulars of a family feud of more than four years caused by the battling between children in the two families.

Haggerty said Johnson told him he shot Miller with a 12-gauge shotgun after his son, Paul, Jr., 13, shouted to him, "Mr. Miller is breaking the door down."

The detective quoted Johnson as saying he warned Miller to "get off the porch or I'll blow you off," and when Miller retorted, "Come on out, I'm not afraid," he fired the fatal shot.

Anti-Semitic Rioting Continues In England

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 4. (AP)—New anti-Semitic riots broke out in Liverpool and Manchester last night and early today as mobs, enraged by the handing of two British sergeants by the Zionist underground in Palestine, smashed, looted and burned Jewish shops.

Flying squads of police restored order in both cities.

In Manchester, approximately 400 persons surrounded an assembly hall where Jews were holding a dance and kept them penned inside for several hours, while other rioters threw missiles through Jewish store windows and shouted "Down with the Jews."

A few hours earlier, anti-Jewish demonstrations occurred in London where a group smashed six windows in an East End synagogue and a crowd of onlookers shouted threats at participants in a Jewish ex-servicemen's outdoor meeting until police halted the session.

House Group To Consider Ship-Charter Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—Chairman Weichel (R-Ohio) said today the House Merchant Marine Committee will consider this fall a plan to charter ships to Germany and Japan for carrying food themselves—an idea first advanced by Herbert Hoover.

Weichel, who introduced the ship-charter measure at request of the War Department, said the purpose is to effect a substantial economy in supplying food to the two countries. Proponents said it would reduce these nations' dollar expenditures and ease American taxpayer burdens.

Hoover, upon returning from his economic survey of Europe several months ago, suggested that surplus Liberty ships could be used for food transport, manned by German and Japanese crews paid in the currency of their countries.

German POWs, Back From Russia, Unfit For Work

BERLIN, Aug. 3—(AP)—All German prisoners of war returning from Russia into the United States occupation zone of Germany are in such poor physical condition that they are unfit for work and many may never be able to work again, the American Military Government said today.

Rehabilitation to make any of them fit for employment requires three to six months' care in camps on extra food rations provided from foreign relief supplies, an official report added.

The report's 10-line account was believed to be AMG's first official comment on the physical state of German prisoners, now being released by the Russians at an accelerated rate after two years or more of labor. There have, however, been frequent published charges by Germans that the Russians released only prisoners no longer able to work.

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, August 3—Miss Juanita Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson, 136 West Main Street, this city, and Edward Flanigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Flanigan, Mt. Savage, were married yesterday morning in St. Michael's Catholic Church, by Rev. Regis Larkin, in a double ring ceremony. The church altar was decorated with white gladioli and tall white tapers.

Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy played the traditionali wedding marches and the accompaniments for Miss Mary Francis Comer, who sang "On This Day O Blessed Mother," "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of yhite bridal satin and tulle, designed with a tight bodice, sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and long full skirt. She wore a finger tip veil of illusion caught with a tiara of orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bridal shower bouquet of white roses with satin streamers, caught in knots of tiny rosebuds.

Her maid of honor, Miss Mary Antoinette Peretti, was attired in a pale pink gown of shadow brocaded organdy, fashioned with a tight bodice, short puff sleeves and long full skirt. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of mixed summer flowers and wore a juliet cap of illusion of the same shade as her gown.

Thomas Flanigan served as his brother's best man and the ushers were Robert Jackson, brother of the bride, and Joseph, Michael and James Flanigan, brothers of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Gunter Hotel, after which the couple left for Washington, and Virginia Beach, Va. The bride wore a street length dress for traveling and carried a corsage of camelias. Her accessories were white.

The bridegroom is a Navy veteran, is employed at the Celanese plant. His bride, a graduate of Beall High School, is employed at the Frostburg telephone exchange. They will reside here.

Noted Author Is Visiting Caverns In Oakland Area

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Aug. 3—Clay Perry, Pittsfield, Mass., author of cave books and founder of the American Cave Series, has invaded the cave country of the Blue Ridge territory in this section to gather material for a third volume in the series. This was announced by his publishers who have already issued "New England's Buried Treasure" and will bring out "Underground Empire Wonders and Tales of New York Caves" this fall.

Mr. Perry has been writing books and magazine articles for more than 25 years and for a decade has specialized in what he calls "spelunking" a word he invented from the basic Greek, "speleos" and the Latin "spelunca" meaning "a cave." He is seeking especially in this area the human history, legend and folklore that clusters about caverns. He is chairman of the Folklore Committee of the National Speleological Society, member of the Board of Governors and past chairman of the New England Spelunkers Grotto No. 1.

Travels In Trailer

Mr. Perry is traveling with a tent trailer with his youngest son, Paul, 20, who is also a spelunker and member of the NSS. They made their first headquarters at the Youghiogheny Forest Colony, ten miles south of Oakland and will camp next at the Blackwater State Forest, with headquarters at Davis, visiting the Seneca State Forest area and points about the area where there are caves. They spent one night at the home of Mrs. John G. Robinson and again at the south edge of town.

Mr. Perry has visited Virginia and West Virginia twice during the past two years, one expedition being to explore the huge Sinnit's Cave in Thorn Mountain near Franklin, which was used during the Civil War for the production of saltpeter for making gunpowder for the Confederate armies. He has written for the Saturday Evening Post about some of the caves in the Blue Ridge country, as well as for several other magazines; his latest article in Ethyl News, entitled "Downstairs America," appears in the July issue. Mr. Perry started from his home July 7, and reached the borders of the cave country July 24, after a stay on Long Island with friends following the sudden death of his wife June 6.

Finds Washington Cave

Mr. Perry's first visit to a cave in this area was at Charles Town, W. Va., where on July 24 he and his son discovered the authentic signature of George Washington carved in the limestone and dated 1748, and learned of the fact that Washington once conducted Masonic services in this cavern for some of his soldiers.

Mr. Perry hopes to hear from several NSS grottoes in this area during his stay and plans to visit some of them on his tour. He can be reached through Rev. Felix Robinson, Arthurdale, W. Va., where he is to return August 23 to participate in the Mountain Choir Festival there, after a visit to the central and southern part of the Blue Ridge area.

FROSTBURG, August 3—Miss Juanita Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson, 136 West Main Street, this city, and Edward Flanigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Flanigan, Mt. Savage, were married yesterday morning in St. Michael's Catholic Church, by Rev. Regis Larkin, in a double ring ceremony. The church altar was decorated with white gladioli and tall white tapers.

Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy played the traditionali wedding marches and the accompaniments for Miss Mary Francis Comer, who sang "On This Day O Blessed Mother," "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white bridal satin and tulle, designed with a tight bodice, sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and long full skirt. She wore a finger tip veil of illusion caught with a tiara of orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bridal shower bouquet of white roses with satin streamers, caught in knots of tiny rosebuds.

Her maid of honor, Miss Mary Antoinette Peretti, was attired in a pale pink gown of shadow brocaded organdy, fashioned with a tight bodice, short puff sleeves and long full skirt. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of mixed summer flowers and wore a juliet cap of illusion of the same shade as her gown.

Thomas Flanigan served as his brother's best man and the ushers were Robert Jackson, brother of the bride, and Joseph, Michael and James Flanigan, brothers of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Gunter Hotel, after which the couple left for Washington, and Virginia Beach, Va. The bride wore a street length dress for traveling and carried a corsage of camelias. Her accessories were white.

Noted Author Is Visiting Caverns In Oakland Area

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Aug. 3—Clay Perry, Pittsfield, Mass., author of cave books and founder of the American Cave Series, has invaded the cave country of the Blue Ridge territory in this section to gather material for a third volume in the series. This was announced by his publishers who have already issued "New England's Buried Treasure" and will bring out "Underground Empire Wonders and Tales of New York Caves" this fall.

Mr. Perry has been writing books and magazine articles for more than 25 years and for a decade has specialized in what he calls "spelunking" a word he invented from the basic Greek, "speleos" and the Latin "spelunca" meaning "a cave." He is seeking especially in this area the human history, legend and folklore that clusters about caverns. He is chairman of the Folklore Committee of the National Speleological Society, member of the Board of Governors and past chairman of the New England Spelunkers Grotto No. 1.

Travels In Trailer

Mr. Perry is traveling with a tent trailer with his youngest son, Paul, 20, who is also a spelunker and member of the NSS. They made their first headquarters at the Youghiogheny Forest Colony, ten miles south of Oakland and will camp next at the Blackwater State Forest, with headquarters at Davis, visiting the Seneca State Forest area and points about the area where there are caves. They spent one night at the home of Mrs. John G. Robinson and again at the south edge of town.

Mr. Perry has visited Virginia and West Virginia twice during the past two years, one expedition being to explore the huge Sinnit's Cave in Thorn Mountain near Franklin, which was used during the Civil War for the production of saltpeter for making gunpowder for the Confederate armies. He has written for the Saturday Evening Post about some of the caves in the Blue Ridge country, as well as for several other magazines; his latest article in Ethyl News, entitled "Downstairs America," appears in the July issue. Mr. Perry started from his home July 7, and reached the borders of the cave country July 24, after a stay on Long Island with friends following the sudden death of his wife June 6.

Finds Washington Cave

Mr. Perry's first visit to a cave in this area was at Charles Town, W. Va., where on July 24 he and his son discovered the authentic signature of George Washington carved in the limestone and dated 1748, and learned of the fact that Washington once conducted Masonic services in this cavern for some of his soldiers.

Mr. Perry hopes to hear from several NSS grottoes in this area during his stay and plans to visit some of them on his tour. He can be reached through Rev. Felix Robinson, Arthurdale, W. Va., where he is to return August 23 to participate in the Mountain Choir Festival there, after a visit to the central and southern part of the Blue Ridge area.

Marshall Plan Now Under Scrutiny of House Group

Congress has closed its doors and started on a "vacation" which will last more than six months unless a special session is called. But its members may be just as busy as they were before.

Part of the time will be spent "mending political fences." That is hard work—and necessary work, too. They will be reporting to the people back home, and finding out what the people think about the job they have done. All these campaign activities are essential to democratic elections.

But the biggest "vacation" job of many congressmen will be serving on committees. If this job is properly done, it will mean a better informed public, better informed congressmen—and far less unfinished congressional business a year hence than there is now.

Foreign affairs will be the subject of several investigations. A lot of lucky congressmen will get free trips to Europe, Latin America, or the Far East. They will not have the aspects of good-time junkets, but rather of hard-working, on-the-spot surveys. The taxpayers' money will be well spent if they return better informed on the world situation. Immigration policy will be reconsidered by one investigating group. Others will consider the State Department's foreign information program, foreign and domestic trade.

Various governmental policies will also be reconsidered. Social Security, agricultural policies, the RFC, and government publicity handouts need scrutiny. Housing, prices, labor and small business will be scrutinized with an eye to America's prosperity. Former President Hoover will help consider further government reorganization. Future military policies, and a few scandals left over from the recent war will need digging into.

Among the investigations will be that to be conducted by a House committee appointed to look into the question of how far we can go in pulling a busted Britain and a broken world to their feet. It's a move that is fitting and proper, because Johnny Meyer, press agent and check picker-upper for Howard Hughes, who sprinkled good cheer from Cocoanut Grove to Copacabana, is a piker compared with Uncle Sam.

Under our Constitution, all spending measures must originate in the House, so it was only natural that the House assumes the task of determining what the check from the other world is likely to be and whether we can afford to pick it up without going broke ourselves. It is vital, indeed.

The committee is made up of nineteen members —11 Republicans and eight Democrats, named by Speaker of the House Joseph Martin. The selection seems to be a careful one, drawn from 15 important House committees, and the plan of procedure has been thought out.

It will be rather a hard-working, on-the-spot survey of what the Marshall Plan implies, because few, if any, outside the State Department, can offer a clear picture of what this secret diplomatic move portends. This committee will endeavor to untangle its intent and purpose in the hope of being able to determine how far we can go in backing it up. Too, it promises to be a really practical application of the bi-partisan principle in dealing with foreign affairs.

Meanwhile, we are in already for $400,000,000 on the Greek and Turkish fronts, and we are confronted with such fresh headlines as "Britain may reduce Army to save cash." Which, being interpreted, indicates more military responsibility passed over to us. Also Britain's dollar situation is fading fast and is expected to be exhausted by December.

So, there is every reason for that authority in our Government, in which is imposed the responsibility for deciding appropriations, to learn first-hand what the check is likely to be and whether we can afford all or just part of it.

There's plenty for congressmen to do on their "vacation."

Proper Respect

Since the end of the war a noticeable lack of respect is evident on certain occasions when the National Anthem is being played.

This is especially true at various types of athletic events where it has become customary to play the Star Spangled Banner. The custom is a fine one and is worthy of much praise. However, some people have been spoiling this patriotic beginning by their carelessness or ignorance of the respect due.

Some people are still arriving at the event when the band begins to play and fail to stop and stand at attention for the few moments it would require. Many continue their conversations and frequently hail a greeting to friends across the way. A few thoughtless ones even stand with their hats on while the band is playing.

Everyone should make a special effort to learn to do the right thing when the Star Spangled Banner is played. As soon as the band begins the National Anthem, every spectator should immediately rise to his feet and stand at attention. Persons moving about should halt. All talking should be stopped. Men and boys wearing hats should remove them with the right hand and hold their hats at the left shoulder —placing the right hand over the heart. These rules are simple and easy to remember.

According to Farley, the "My Friends!" salutation was all-inclusive only when it was released over the air waves.

Here's Good News

Scotch whisky prices are due for a tumble, according to information reaching this paper. Much of the impending decline is traceable to the recent arrival of 2,500,000 fifths from Great Britain.

Prices already had dropped from $10 and $12 last Christmas to $6 and under—due principally to consumer resistance—but the new shipment held out the prospect of further reductions.

To make the prediction stick, Great Britain said that it planned to step up its Scotch production to obtain more American dollars for badly needed foreign exchange.

Another factor was the plight of many liquor dealers who were caught with high-priced Scotch and now find the market about to be glutted with new supplies.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DANGER FROM OVERHEATING

SUNSTROKE is among the oldest of recognized diseases and one of the earliest cases on record was the son of the Shunammite woman, as told in II. Kings IV., 18-20. This lad had gone to visit his father who was reaping. On reaching the field he complained of headache and had to be sent home. He died shortly thereafter but was resurrected by Elisha.

The condition, usually referred to now as "heat stroke," is not uncommon in the tropics and during protracted scorchers. The heat regulation mechanism of the body ceases to function so that the internal temperature rises instead of remaining at 98.6 degrees F. The disorder is encouraged by exposure to the intense rays of the sun on a windless, humid day. In the circumstances, perspiration does not evaporate because there is too much moisture in the air and the wind fails to carry it away. In addition, the victims are overclothed and exercising too much.

The disturbance is more prone to occur in alcoholics and those who have not been acclimated to the heat. Natives of cooler climates must be careful on going to torrid regions, especially if required to work in the open. They should take things easy for at least two weeks until the body adjusts to the warmer environment. This was re-emphasized in some of our southern camps during the recent war. The majority of victims had been in camps for two weeks or less.

The effects of overheating lead to a variety of symptoms. At first the individual becomes dizzy and faint, followed by the appearance of headache, nausea and vomiting. Others develop a choking sensation and find it difficult to swallow or speak. If not removed to cooler surroundings unconsciousness may ensue, during which time breathing is labored and deep and the muscles twitch.

Occasionally the onset is abrupt and the sufferer falls without warning as tho struck upon the head. The face is flushed the pulse rapid, and the skin hot. Sweating is absent and the clinical thermometer registers between 99 and 111 degrees F. Unless fever is reduced, and consciousness returns within 24 to 36 hours, the outlook is unfavorable. The young and healthy stand a better chance of survival than the old and infirm, in whom there is a mortality of between 30 to 40 per cent.

Emergency treatment is demanded. Everything possible should be done to lower the body temperature. The easiest method is to rub the surface with ice or apply a wet pack and then have an electric fan blow over the victim. Immersion in an ice bath is too shocking. A much better procedure is to place the patient in warm water and cool the medium gradually by adding colder water or ice. Stimulants such as ammonia, ephedrine, or caffeine are often required.

Cure is not always simple, and several days may pass before the afflicted person feels like himself. In some, permanent damage to the brain results so that the power to concentrate or remember is lost. Many are unable to withstand high temperatures thereafter and become nervous or irritable as the mercury approaches 80 degrees F.

No.

Yes—so-called silent stones.

DISTRESS FROM WALKING

J. W. writes: Why should walking cause pain in a person with a spastic ileum? It never occurs at any other time.

REPLY

This is not the typical story in the disorder. If the diagnosis is correct, the symptom represents a condition with which I am not familiar. It is not unusual for those who develop discomfort while at rest to have difficulty in walking until the process subsides.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

What could be worse than a psychoneurotic hen? Somewhere in the chicken coop of Mrs. Rosella Garner of Bakersfield, Calif., there's a hen that's literally wasting away with frustration. One of Mrs. Garner's hens laid an egg 7½ inches x 9½ inches and Mrs. Garner doesn't know which one. Imagina that. Here's a hen that goes to the trouble of dropping an omelette masterpiece and she's getting no credit.

That hen is probably contemplating suicide at this very minute. She's a creative genius and nobody knows it. This is what drives great artists to madness.

She probably sits there all day just brooding with her brood. Of course, this hen can't be like other chickens. She doesn't lay eggs in the usual way. Instead of clucking when she feels the urge to drop her cargo, she must scream "clear the runway."

But what's going to happen to her? Unless she gets recognition, I predict her future right now. She'll look around at her relatives who just sit there in their nest loafing and living off the seed of the land and she'll get disgusted. She'll give up her lifelong ambition to lay an egg that matches the Graf Zepplin and go back to being a regular hack. If I were that chicken, I'd buy a full page ad in the farmers almanac and show the world my genius. Frankly, the whole situation puzzles me, probably because I've had such a different background. Everytime I lay an egg, the whole world knows it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—In an old colonial house at 2017 F Street stands one of the most effective lobbying rendezvous in Washington—the secret residence of Pan American Airways.

You won't find the address listed in the phone book. But if you ring a bell, a dignified butler will open the door, and once inside you will probably find genial Sam Pryor, former Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut and on occasion Juan Trippe himself, president of Pan American Airways.

To this well-appointed colonial residence last winter were invited several members of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. And over the coffee and brandy which followed dinner, Juan Trippe unfolded his ideas on the chosen instrument, in other words, having one company fly the air routes of the world.

Trippe, the brother-in-law of ex-Secretary of State Stettinius, is a persuasive and charming talker. He could almost talk the Russians out of a veto. Two years before, he had staged an all-out campaign to get the "one company" plan OK'd by Congress but failed. Last winter, with the first Republican Congress in 16 years, he was determined to try again.

Pan American Persuasion

Two Congressmen at this dinner were Committee Chairman Charles Wolverton of Camden, N. J., and Evan Howell of Illinois, both Republicans. And so profound was Trippe's impression that about one week later, both Wolverton and Howell introduced identic bills favoring the "one company" plan for overseas airlines.

Simultaneously, two other members of the same Committee, Hinshaw of California, Republican, and Harris of Arkansas, Democrat, introduced similar bills. It is not known that they were at the secret Trippe dinner, but it was known that none of the four really drafted the bills they signed. In fact, Hinshaw freely admitted to friends that the bill was "handed" to him, and it was generally understood that the "hander" was Henry Friendly, attorney for Pan American Airways.

Best-Friend Brewster

About the time the four Congressmen introduced their Pan American-inspired "one company" bills, a companion bill was introduced in the Senate by Brewster of Maine, Pan American's best friend and long time Senatorial booster.

The Senator from Maine has never concealed his frank and open championship of Pan American. That friendship is taken for granted around the Senate. Once Brewster even flew in a Pan Am special plane NC4000 to Raleigh, N. C., to try to persuade the late Senator Bailey, then Chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, to come out for the "one company" bill. Bailey refused.

Now spearheading the probe against Howard Hughes' airplane contracts, Brewster has been charged by Hughes with promising to call off the Senate probe if Hughes' Trans World Airline and Pan American could get together.

Astute and able, Brewster is only one part of the ramified network of Pan American friends and helpful promoters. Another working closely with Brewster is John Cooper, former vice-president of Pan Am, who very conveniently was appointed consultant to the Library of Congress on aviation matters and then assigned to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee as aviation adviser.

It was Brewster, a powerful member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, who arranged that the Committee should have the "advice" of this former Pan American Airways vice-president. Cooper, long a close friend of Juan Trippe, received a $10,000 retainer from Pan Am, even while teaching international aviation law at Princeton.

Incidentally, the mysterious fact that Brewster is on the Interstate Commerce Committee at all, has been the subject of Senate cloakroom gossip; since Senator White, also of Maine, is Chairman of the Committee, and two Senators from the same state are not supposed to be on the same committee. Brewster, however, somehow managed to make himself an exception to the rule and obtained a seat on this powerful group which passes on air legislation.

Pan Am Wire Pulling

Pan Am has always been opposed to competition. This is its basic creed.

For some time Pan Am has come in for vigorous criticism from the Civil Aeronautics Board, largely because of the monopoly idea which it so staunchly champions. When Pan Am had a monopoly in Latin America, CAB investigator Sam Gates, reporting on air-mail contracts, wrote:

"The rates of compensation now being received by Pan American Airways are excessive and are neither fair nor reasonable. Much of the operation in Latin America is no more difficult than the conduct of an airline operation across the United States, yet Pan American had made a total profit of $16,000,000 on an investment of only $10,000,000.

"To put it another way," Gates continued, "the carrier has made profits during this 12-year period equal to the total capital employed, plus an over-all profit of 60 per cent."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Teddy Bear Illusion

The American male, according to the popular magazines, the movies and—bless its little unsophisticated heart—the radio, is just a great big teddy bear with a sheepish grin and ten thumbs. This engaging and altogether too flattering portrait has been so widely circulated that nature has begun to imitate art; ultimately, all American men will be born with two left feet and a shy grin worn slightly to the left like Jimmy Stewart's.

John Crosby

The latest radio personality to give the trend a shove is Bill Goodwin, a real, live talking teddy bear. Goodwin is an ex-announcer who has blossomed forth under the wing of C.B.S. as a comedian and a pretty good one. The Bill Goodwin Show (CBS 9 p. m. EDT Saturdays) is an on-again off-again affair. He has presented some darn good shows and some terrible ones and what is one to say about a man like that?

When it started, the show sounded as if they had dumped in every funny idea that had been lying unused around the network. Goodwin is an insurance salesman—and there is a field wide open for satire —and also a joiner of lodges, loyal orders of this and that, organizations to improve things and even the Boy Scouts. (He tells the Boy Scouts about the birds and bees; they tell him about the Girl Scouts.) He is heckled in his far-flung responsibilities by the Dinwiddy Sisters, a couple of spinsters who utter what sounds like baby talk strained through mush; a featherbrained secretary, Geraldine, an acid girl friend, Philippa, a high-powered, apoplectic boss who has a boundless enthusiasm for insurance and very little for Goodwin. ("About that raise, bend over!")

As if that weren't enough, there's another minor character, named Clayton Scallion, a barber of literal mind, who complains that people are always asking how he is when he isn't. Just to add to the clamor, Goodwin has voices, not one voice like Bob Hope, but, to make it different, two voices. What the show needs is some very efficient throwing away, and they can start with those Dinwiddy sisters. A lot of promising radio comedies are ruined by the introduction of totally implausible minor characters like the Dinwiddy sisters. Sometimes I wonder if those Hollywood writers ever meet any PEOPLE. Spelled backward that's teddy bear.)

In spite of the overpopulation on the Goodwin show, some of the programs have been very funny indeed. Recently, for example, Goodwin was assigned the task of dissuading the holder of a $100,000 life insurance policy from committing suicide because his girl had scorned him. "There are other fish in the sea," Goodwin points out. "I like the way she wiggles her fins," says the policy holder mororely. "Stand back, I may splash."

Suicide normally isn't a very funny situation, but in this case it was treated in such hard-boiled, literal fashion it was fairly hilarious. "You can't commit suicide after all I've done for you. Where are your manners?" At its best it sounded like good Damon Runyon, and its worst, like bad musical comedy, and what more can you expect from a comedy show?

Goodwin has a pleasant, diffident personality and has picked up a number of shrewd acting tricks. He underplays very skillfully and, when on occasion, he bears down too hard, I'm charitable enough to think that it's because the script demands it. It's not my responsibility to rewrite these things, but I can't resist offering a few suggestions. Simplify the plot, slow down the pace and take it easy, Bub, take it easy.

The current Bill Goodwin Show may or may not survive but I'm confident that Goodwin will. In fact, after consultation with my crystal ball, which is easily the least accurate instrument in the whole history of prophecy, I should like to venture the prediction that Goodwin eventually will develop into one of the top comedians in the business. And now, having laid my curse on him, I'll steal quietly away.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (CP) — Safest bet on Capitol Hill is that the universal military training bill—pigeonholed during the first session of the 80th Congress — will remain where it is in the next session. America's 18 to 20-year-old youths can thus be fairly safely able to plan their civilian careers — unless there be war or serious threat of war.

Even so, if the danger of war should appear, the present bill would be discarded and a more "effective" bill introduced and passed. But neither statesmen nor Capitol Hill leaders scent any powder of a shooting war now.

The Republicans for the most part are dead set against peacetime conscription. So are numerous Democrats. The GOP, however, disclaims, at the top, any intention of weakening national defense. They claim to be thoroughly displeased with the president's bill, calling it "nebulous." Where it "practical," they contend, they would still oppose it as "regimentation."

Chairman Eugene Milliken (R), Colo., of the Senate finance committee, one of the GOP Republican leaders, voiced the views of many when he said:

"I would have to be convinced of the need for compulsory military training first. Then they would have to show me that this bill accomplishes anything definite. It seems to be a theoretical bill to me. No such bill would pass the 80th Congress at any time."

Black market back — The current oil shortage is reviving on a small scale the blackmarketing of petroleum products in some midwestern areas. This is due to shortages caused by a 15 per cent increase in consumption over last year. The increase is due largely to the seasonal demands of farmers to move crops to market by rail. These must have priority over oil shipments on the railroads.

Eastern states need fear no shortage. There are plenty of tankers available to haul petroleum supplies to seaboard states.

AFL leadership — A battle royal may be staged at the San Francisco AFL convention for the presidency of that organization should William Green decide to retire from the post he has held for 23 years.

Chief aspirants are expected to be George Meany, present AFL secretary-treasurer, and John L. Lewis, lately returned to the AFL.

The former has the support of the powerful building trades department of the Federation. He is a member of the plumbers union. His cause may also be supported by Daniel J. Tobin of the Teamsters Union and no great friend of Lewis.

Lewis can depend on the support, of "Big Bill" Hutcheson of the Carpenters, long a potent leader in AFL councils.

Many labor observers believe that Lewis, having won the welfare fund battle with the owners and the miners' best contract in history, is ready to turn the reins of his union over to someone else. He is believed to nurse a secret ambition to head a merged AFL-CIO as a crowning achievement of his embattled history.

Cheaper Meat — Agricultural observers in Washington anticipate a possible drop — not large — in meat prices late this summer, due to an improved outlook on the corn crop. Meat prices generally hinge on corn prices. Early this summer poor weather put a crimp in prospects for a record breaking corn yield. Agriculture department forecasts were gloomy and meat prices bounced despite the fact that summer is normally a period of low meat consumption.

Now the forecast, based on recent weeks of good weather, is that the crop will yield two billion, 771 million bushels. This is an increase of 158 million bushels over July 1 estimates. While the present estimate is 230 million bushels less than the three billion bushels sought for the crop year, it far exceeds normal yields.

Prospects for a bumper wheat crop also may act as a depressant on meat prices.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

If you've been reading these columns, you've probabliy noticed I've been having a big love affair with the City of New York right out in front of everybody.

We've been seen around together, and it's silly to deny it—I'm a pushover for m'lady Manhattan. I can never pass the Washington Bridge, the torch-bearing tootsie on Bedloe Island, or the sun-burned cop at the mouth of the Holland Tunnel without something going click inside me.

Billy Rose

For my money, our telephone directory has the greatest cast of characters ever assembled on any stage. They're all part of a hair-raising show—boiler factory crossed with juke box—and the ticket of admission is a pair of eager eyes.

To keep the show from slowing down in the second act, it has some fabulous villains. But like any show that's box-office, it has people you like in the cast.

As far as my wife and I are concerned our favorite players are a couple who live around the corner from us—Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Reynolds. Whether it's New Potatoes, Idaho or New York, New York, every married couple has another married couple in its life. The Reynolds are ours.

If I call my house and get a busy signal, I know Eleanor is dishing with Virginia—I think they must put in a 40-hour week on that phone.

We've destroyed dozens of each other's dinners, rubbed gallons of sun-tan oil on each other's backs, and coffee-housed over thousands of gin rummy games. To my sorrow, Quent has a dirty habit of grabbing a middle card and knocking on the second pick.

Ginny is one of the prettiest chicks ever hatched—gay as a merry-go-round and strictly a True Blue Lou.

As everybody who reads English knows, Quentin writes like a fire-engine. The big fellow also goes well with good times, good wine and good conversation.

Part of the fun of being around this couple is that they're gloriously goofy about each other. But enough of this valentining. Though the Reynolds are my pet caramel in the Manhattan candy box, I know that the assortment includes nougats and marshmallows, Foxy Grandpas and licorice sticks.

Though I've been wearing long pants since the Hudson-Fulton celebration, this town still makes me feel like a kid on a midway. I've seen the Fitzpatrick travelogues, and there are plenty of foreign hotel stickers on my beat-up suitcases—but I always come back with the same old line—"There's only one Paris, and New York is its name."

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

CONFLICT OF PURPOSE

The ancient method of imperialism was to conquer an area, perhaps to seize it, certainly to colonize it, to establish ports, and to exploit the region and its people commercially. The Phoenicians thus established Carthage; the Greeks dotted the Mediterranean with a thousand cities; Alexander tried to hold the known world of his day; the Roman legions marched through Europe, Asia and Africa, wherever they could. Imperialism is as old as history; colonization is one of the earliest organized efforts of man.

In more modern times, Great Britain, France, Spain and Holland made the world smaller by vast colonization and imperialistic projects in every part of the world. The Western European system involved the bringing of weak and backward peoples into the economic and cultural orbit of Western civilization. As in the instances of North and South America, Australia, New Zealand, and Central Africa, it meant opening altogether new and hitherto unknown areas to contact with Europe. In the instances of such countries as India, China, Egypt, Syria, it resurrected ancient and tottering states.

The resurgence of nationalism in colonial countries today is not a condemnation of imperialism. Rather is it evidence that the impact of Western civilization has benefitted these peoples, has stimulated the powers of self-government, cultivated pride of culture that once had made them significant states. Western imperialism has, on the whole, been historically beneficial to all who have lived in its atmosphere.

Russian imperialism has been essentially different. In the first place, it has dealt entirely with contiguous territory. With one exception, Alaska, the Russians crossed no vast bodies of water, met no obstacles, fought no great wars, subdued no powerful peoples to achieve their ends. They simply snowballed. They rolled along wherever there was a weak spot. They moved across the Urals and Siberia into the Maritime Provinces terminating at Vladivostok because there was nothing to resist them. Small tribes of nomadic peoples, the remnants of the Golden Horde of Genghis Khan were in no condition to withstand their advances. Furthermore, the Russian strain is as much Mongol as Slav, as much Tartar as European. It was easier to absorb than to conquer the Asiatics with whom they dealt. It is still easier.

The Russian southward imperialist trend encountered difficulties. The Armenians resisted. The Rumanians objected to Bessarabia being taken from them. The Moslems looked toward Byzantium and Mecca rather than to Moscow. Nevertheless, all territory was contiguous. It was merely a matter of moving outward the bulkheads of Empire.

By Yalta, Russia achieved her greatest advance, for that agreement gave to the Soviets the maximum aspiration of Czarist imperialism. But Yalta gave to Russia no territory, except perhaps the Kuriles, which do not lie contiguous to Russian soil and the Kuriles are only separated by a narrow body of water.

The Soviet method of imperialistic control is different from that of any Western country, although it is not dissimilar to the spread of the United States from 13 separate colonies to 48 federated states. The "Federation" system—The Union of Socialist Soviet Republics —might from the Russian standpoint encompass the world. For any nation might under certain conditions join the Federation. The Theses on National and Colonial Questions of the Third International states:

"Federation is a transitional form towards the complete union of the workers of all countries . . . . we must strive for ever closer federative connections, bearing in mind first the impossibility of maintaining the Soviet Republic surrounded by powerful imperialist nations, without a close union with other Soviet Republics; second, the necessity of a close economic union of the Soviet Republics, without which the restoration of the forces of production destroyed by imperialism and the assuring of the welfare of the workers is impossible; third, the striving towards the creation of a unified world economy based on one general plan and regulated by the proletariat of all the nations of the world . . ."

Although this plan was laid down several years ago, it is now in practice. Only the existence of the United Nations and the dread of war with the United States prevents Poland, Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia from being absorbed in such a Federation immediately.

Finds Many Retail Stores Have Wartime Hangover With Clerks

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug., 3 — Not long ago Boston's famous cartoonist, Dahl, pictured a well-dressed gentleman standing on his head in a well-known department store trying to attract the attention of some salesgirl. I know how this man felt standing on his head because I have been stood-up myself lately by salespersons—haven't you?

There can be no question but many of our retail stores have a bad war-time hang-over. During the war years most workers had to do double time. There was a shortage of both goods and services. We became accustomed to waiting in line behind the counter. Most customers were tolerant because they understood well the reasons for the lack of service.

Today, however, the quotas in most sales staffs is reasonably well filled. Hence, there is little excuse for the condescending attitude of the salesperson who feels she or he is doing us a favor to wait on us. I overheard one kindly old woman, whom I watched for some minutes trying to get a salesgirl to wait on her, finally retort: "Look a here, girlie, are you mad or just sultry?"

Salesclerks The Real Bottleneck

The salesclerks and travelling salesmen of the nation are a most important factor in determining future business conditions. You don't need to be undecided about the trend of business, just note how salesclerks act. They'll give you the answer. If they are courteous and anxious to serve, general business will be good for another year or two at least. If they are indifferent and slow to serve, look for a falling off in sales, accompanied by gradually increasing unemployment.

One reason for present indifference is the minimum wage laws of various states. Where such minimums are highest, the service is poorest. Because the law prevents penalizing saucy and indifferent clerks with pay cuts, too many clerks don't care what they do or say. I believe in good wages. Every merchant should work for a high wage standard in his city; it helps business. But wages should be adjusted to the service rendered. Fixed wages and hours—either by laws or unions—encourage carelessness and ultimately will bring about general unemployment.

Satisfied Customers Pay Good Dividends

Recent statistics indicate that department store sales may soon be lower than a year ago. With output of factories at extremely high levels and a large part of the urgent demand now over, sales departments must become a more important aspect of every industry. This is one reason why I invest my savings in merchandising chains rather than in factories or railroads.

Babson charts also indicate that the increase in business failures has already grown to a new high as compared to previous years. As retail trade becomes more competitive and customers seek bargains and discounts, or refuse to buy, this trend is likely to continue. This increase in failures is largely due to the sloppy attitude of salesclerks.

Advertising

In the light of current trends, customers can no longer be treated with indifference. After spending money on advertising to attract people into your store to buy, pay more attention to them when they do come in. This will greatly help your advertising to "pull" better and show big profits. Good advertising and good salesclerks should go hand-in-hand like a lock and a key or a hatchet and handle.

Today's Talk

Without Opposition

I wonder if anyone has ever accomplished anything worth while without opposition? We have within us at least two natures that are forever struggling with each other. The one that is most triumphant is the nature that we are—that people know us to be. No one, outside our own selves, however, knows about the fight and struggle that keeps going on inside.

It used to be said of President Grover Cleveland that people loved him because of the enemies that he made. But that wasn't it. It was because of the rugged and dogged courage and independence of the man. He it was who once said that a public office was a public trust. Opposition only made Grover Cleveland more determined to assert what he believed to be right.

People go to baseball games, to football contests, to horse races, and other sporting events, to view the sportsmanship that results—contests in which opposition brings out the best—and the winner!

The explorer meets daily opposition, so does the inventor, so does the business man, and so does the statesman. Without opposition humanity would travel backwards. We all meet opposition, and none of us would reserve anything that we gain if we didn't have it. Almost all beauty is the result of opposition. All great art is, no matter how acquired.

It's opposition that stirs the fight within us, that gives us determination, and which brings out the best that we have and are. People listen to the man who says that he welcomes opposition. They know that he is one who is not afraid to talk the truth, or to assert his convictions. It's the opposition that is responsible for every great advance in the rule of the people, and in the establishment of freedom and justice.

Without opposition we would become complainers and weaklings. We would have no lessons to go by. A failure would be a failure, without any incentive to turn it rapidly into a winning event. The late Wendell Willkie introduced a phrase into national politics when he spoke of his party as "the loyal opposition." If all opposition were loyal there would be a different story told each day in our newspapers and over our radios!

Marshall Plan Now Under Scrutiny of House Group

Congress has closed its doors and started on a "vacation" which will last more than six months unless a special session is called. But its members may be just as busy as they were before.

Part of the time will be spent "mending political fences." That is hard work—and necessary work, too. They will be reporting to the people back home, and finding out what the people think about the job they have done. All these campaign activities are essential to democratic elections.

But the biggest "vacation" job of many congressmen will be serving on committees. If this job is properly done, it will mean a better informed public, better informed congressmen—and far less unfinished congressional business a year hence than there is now.

Foreign affairs will be the subject of several investigations. A lot of lucky congressmen will get free trips to Europe, Latin America, or the Far East. They will not have the aspects of good-time junkets, but rather of hard-working, on-the-spot surveys. The taxpayers' money will be well spent if they return better informed on the world situation. Immigration policy will be reconsidered by one investigating group. Others will consider the State Department's foreign information program, foreign and domestic trade.

Various governmental policies will also be reconsidered. Social Security, agricultural policies, the RFC, and government publicity handouts need scrutiny. Housing, prices, labor and small business will be scrutinized with an eye to America's prosperity. Former President Hoover will help consider further government reorganization. Future military policies, and a few scandals left over from the recent war will need digging into.

Among the investigations will be that to be conducted by a House committee appointed to look into the question of how far we can go in pulling a busted Britain and a broken world to their feet. It's a move that is fitting and proper, because Johnny Meyer, press agent and check picker-upper for Howard Hughes, who sprinkled good cheer from Cocoanut Grove to Copacabana, is a piker compared with Uncle Sam.

Under our Constitution, all spending measures must originate in the House, so it was only natural that the House assumes the task of determining what the check from the other world is likely to be and whether we can afford to pick it up without going broke ourselves. It is vital, indeed.

The committee is made up of nineteen members—11 Republicans and eight Democrats, named by Speaker of the House Joseph Martin. The selection seems to be a careful one, drawn from 15 important House committees, and the plan of procedure has been thought out.

It will be rather a hard-working, on-the-spot survey of what the Marshall Plan implies, because few, if any, outside the State Department, can offer a clear picture of what this secret diplomatic move portends. This committee will endeavor to untangle its intent and purpose in the hope of being able to determine how far we can go in backing it up. Too, it promises to be a really practical application of the bi-partisan principle in dealing with foreign affairs.

Meanwhile, we are in already for $400,000,000 on the Greek and Turkish fronts, and we are confronted with such fresh headlines as "Britain may reduce Army to save cash." Which, being interpreted, indicates more military responsibility passed over to us. Also Britain's dollar situation is fading fast and is expected to be exhausted by December.

So, there is every reason for that authority in our Government, in which is imposed the responsibility for deciding appropriations, to learn first-hand what the check is likely to be and whether we can afford all or just part of it.

There's plenty for congressmen to do on their "vacation."

Now We Have Heard Everything item: The National Labor Relations Board has ruled in favor of an employer.

Proper Respect

Since the end of the war a noticeable lack of respect is evident on certain occasions when the National Anthem is being played.

This is especially true at various types of athletic events where it has become customary to play the Star Spangled Banner. The custom is a fine one and is worthy of much praise. However, some people have been spoiling this patriotic beginning by their carelessness or ignorance of the respect due.

Some people are still arriving at the event when the band begins to play and fail to stop and stand at attention for the few moments it would require. Many continue their conversations and frequently hail a greeting to friends across the way. A few thoughtless ones even stand with their hats on while the band is playing.

Everyone should make a special effort to learn to do the right thing when the Star Spangled Banner is played. As soon as the band begins the National Anthem, every spectator should immediately rise to his feet and stand at attention. Persons moving about should halt. All talking should be stopped. Men and boys wearing hats should remove them with the right hand and hold their hats at the left shoulder—placing the right hand over the heart. These rules are simple and easy to remember.

According to Farley, the "My Friends!" salutation was all-inclusive only when it was released over the air waves.

Here's Good News

Scotch whisky prices are due for a tumble, according to information reaching this paper. Much of the impending decline is traceable to the recent arrival of 2,500,000 fifths from Great Britain.

Prices already had dropped from $10 and $12 last Christmas to $6 and under—due principally to consumer resistance—but the new shipment held out the prospect of further reductions.

To make the prediction stick, Great Britain said that it planned to step up its Scotch production to obtain more American dollars for badly needed foreign exchange.

Another factor was the plight of many liquor dealers who were caught with high-priced Scotch and now find the market about to be glutted with new supplies.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DANGER FROM OVERHEATING

SUNSTROKE is among the oldest of recognized diseases and one of the earliest cases on record was the son of the Shunammite woman, as told in II. Kings IV., 18-20. This lad had gone to visit his father who was reaping. On reaching the field he complained of headache and had to be sent home. He died shortly thereafter but was resurrected by Elisha.

The condition, usually referred to now as "heat stroke," is not uncommon in the tropics and during protracted scorchers. The heat regulation mechanism of the body ceases to function so that the internal temperature rises instead of remaining at 98.6 degrees F. The disorder is encouraged by exposure to the intense rays of the sun on a windless, humid day. In the circumstances, perspiration does not evaporate because there is too much moisture in the air and the wind fails to carry it away. In addition, the victims are overclothed and exercising too much.

The disturbance is more prone to occur in alcoholics and those who have not been acclimated to the heat. Natives of cooler climates must be careful on going to torrid regions, especially if required to work in the open. They should take things easy for at least two weeks until the body adjusts to the warmer environment. This was re-emphasized in some of our southern camps during the recent war. The majority of victims had been in camps for two weeks or less.

The effects of overheating lead to a variety of symptoms. At first the individual becomes dizzy and faint, followed by the appearance of headache, nausea and vomiting. Others develop a choking sensation and find it difficult to swallow or speak. If not removed to cooler surroundings unconsciousness may ensue, during which time breathing is labored and deep and the muscles twitch.

Occasionally the onset is abrupt and the sufferer falls without warning as tho struck upon the head. The face is flushed the pulse rapid, and the skin hot. Sweating is absent and the clinical thermometer registers between 99 and 111 degrees F. Unless fever is reduced, and consciousness returns within 24 to 36 hours, the outlook is unfavorable. The young and healthy stand a better chance of survival than the old and infirm, in whom there is a mortality of between 30 to 40 per cent.

Emergency treatment is demanded. Everything possible should be done to lower the body temperature. The easiest method is to rub the surface with ice or apply a wet pack and then have an electric fan blow over the victim. Immersion in an ice bath is too shocking. A much better procedure is to place the patient in warm water and cool the medium gradually by adding colder water or ice. Stimulants such as ammonia, ephedrine, or caffeine are often required.

Cure is not always simple, and several days may pass before the afflicted person feels like himself. In some, permanent damage to the brain results so that the power to concentrate or remember is lost. Many are unable to withstand high temperatures thereafter and become nervous or irritable as the mercury approaches 80 degrees F.

Yes—so-called silent stones.

DISTRESS FROM WALKING

J. W. writes: Why should walking cause pain in a person with a spastic ileum? It never occurs at any other time.

REPLY

This is not the typical story in the disorder. If the diagnosis is correct, the symptom represents a condition with which I am not familiar. It is not unusual for those who develop discomfort while at rest to have difficulty in walking until the process subsides.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

What could be worse than a psychoneurotic hen? Somewhere in the chicken coop of Mrs. Rosella Garner of Bakersfield, Calif., there's a hen that's literally wasting away with frustration. One of Mrs. Garner's hens laid an egg 7½ inches x 9½ inches and Mrs. Garner doesn't know which one. Imagina that. Here's a hen that goes to the trouble of dropping an omelette masterpiece and she's getting no credit.

That hen is probably contemplating suicide at this very minute. She's a creative genius and nobody knows it. This is what drives great artists to madness.

She probably sits there all day just brooding with her brood. Of course, this hen can't be like other chickens. She doesn't lay eggs in the usual way. Instead of clucking when she feels the urge to drop her cargo, she must scream "clear the runway."

But what's going to happen to her? Unless she gets recognition, I predict her future right now. She'll look around at her relatives who just sit there in their nest loafing and living off the seed of the land and she'll get disgusted. She'll give up her lifelong ambition to lay an egg that matches the Graf Zeppelin and go back to being a regular hack. If I were that chicken, I'd buy a full page ad in the farmers almanac and show the world my genius. Frankly, the whole situation puzzles me, probably because I've had such a different background. Everytime I lay an egg, the whole world knows it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—In an old colonial house at 2017 F Street stands one of the most effective lobbying rendezvous in Washington—the secret residence of Pan American Airways.

You won't find the address listed in the phone book. But if you ring a bell, a dignified butler will open the door, and once inside you will probably find genial Sam Pryor, former Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut and on occasion Juan Trippe himself, president of Pan American Airways.

To this well-appointed colonial residence last winter were invited several members of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. And over the coffee and brandy which followed dinner, Juan Trippe unfolded his ideas on the chosen instrument, in other words, having one company fly the air routes of the world.

Trippe, the brother-in-law of ex-Secretary of State Stettinius, is a persuasive and charming talker. He could almost talk the Russians out of a veto. Two years before, he had staged an all-out campaign to get the "one company" plan OK'd by Congress but failed. Last winter, with the first Republican Congress in 16 years, he was determined to try again.

Pan American Persuasion

Two Congressmen at this dinner were Committee Chairman Charles Wolverton of Camden, N. J., and Evan Howell of Illinois, both Republicans. And so profound was Trippe's impression that about one week later, both Wolverton and Howell introduced identic bills favoring the "one company" plan for overseas airlines.

Simultaneously, two other members of the same Committee, Hinshaw of California, Republican, and Harris of Arkansas, Democrat, introduced similar bills. It is not known that they were at the secret Trippe dinner, but it was known that none of the four really drafted the bills they signed. In fact, Hinshaw freely admitted to friends that the bill was "handed" to him, and it was generally understood that the "hander" was Henry Friendly, attorney for Pan American Airways.

Best-Friend Brewster

About the time the four Congressmen introduced their Pan American-inspired "one company" bills, a companion bill was introduced in the Senate by Brewster of Maine, Pan American's best friend and long time Senatorial booster.

The Senator from Maine has never concealed his frank and open championship of Pan American. That friendship is taken for granted around the Senate. Once Brewster even flew in a Pan Am special plane NC4000 to Raleigh, N. C., to try to persuade the late Senator Bailey, then Chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, to come out for the "one company" bill. Bailey refused.

Now spearheading the probe against Howard Hughes' airplane contracts, Brewster has been charged by Hughes with promising to call off the Senate probe if Hughes' Trans World Airline and Pan American could get together.

Astute and able, Brewster is only one part of the ramified network of Pan American friends and helpful promoters. Another working closely with Brewster is John Cooper, former vice-president of Pan Am, who very conveniently was appointed consultant to the Library of Congress on aviation matters and then assigned to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee as aviation adviser.

It was Brewster, a powerful member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, who arranged that the Committee should have the "advice" of this former Pan American Airways vice-president. Cooper, long a close friend of Juan Trippe, received a $10,000 retainer from Pan Am, even while teaching international aviation law at Princeton.

Incidentally, the mysterious fact that Brewster is on the Interstate Commerce Committee at all, has been the subject of Senate cloakroom gossip; since Senator White, also of Maine, is Chairman of the Committee, and two Senators from the same state are not supposed to be on the same committee. Brewster, however, somehow managed to make himself an exception to the rule and obtained a seat on this powerful group which passes on air legislation.

Pan Am Wire Pulling

Pan Am has always been opposed to competition. This is its basic creed.

For some time Pan Am has come in for vigorous criticism from the Civil Aeronautics Board, largely because of the monopoly idea which it so staunchly champions. When Pan Am had a monopoly in Latin America, CAB investigator Sam Gates, reporting on air-mail contracts, wrote:

"The rates of compensation now being received by Pan American Airways are excessive and are neither fair nor reasonable. Much of the operation in Latin America is no more difficult than the conduct of an airline operation across the United States, yet Pan American had made a total profit of $16,000,000 on an investment of only $10,000,000.

"To put it another way," Gates continued, "the carrier has made profits during this 12-year period equal to the total capital employed, plus an over-all profit of 60 per cent."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Teddy Bear Illusion

The American male, according to the popular magazines, the movies and—bless its little unsophisticated heart—the radio, is just a great big teddy bear with a sheepish grin and ten thumbs. This engaging and altogether too flattering portrait has been so widely circulated that nature has begun to imitate art; ultimately, all American men will be born with two left feet and a shy grin worn slightly to the left like Jimmy Stewart's.

John Crosby

The latest radio personality to give the trend a shove is Bill Goodwin, a real, live talking teddy bear. Goodwin is an ex-announcer who has blossomed forth under the wing of C.B.S. as a comedian and a pretty good one. The Bill Goodwin Show (CBS 9 p. m. EDT Saturdays) is an on-again off-again affair. He has presented some darn good shows and some terrible ones and what is one to say about a man like that?

When it started, the show sounded as if they had dumped in every funny idea that had been lying unused around the network. Goodwin is an insurance salesman—and there is a field wide open for satire—and also a joiner of lodges, loyal orders of this and that, organizations to improve things and even the Boy Scouts. (He tells the Boy Scouts about the birds and bees; they tell him about the Girl Scouts.) He is heckled in his far-flung responsibilities by the Dinwiddy Sisters, a couple of spinsters who utter what sounds like baby talk strained through mush; a featherbrained secretary, Geraldine, an acid girl friend, Philippa, a high-powered, apoplectic boss who has a boundless enthusiasm for insurance and very little for Goodwin. ("About that raise, bend over!")

As if that weren't enough, there's another minor character, named Clayton Scallion, a barber of literal mind, who complains that people are always asking how he is when he isn't. Just to add to the clamor, Goodwin has voices, not one voice like Bob Hope, but, to make it different, two voices. What the show needs is some very efficient throwing away, and they can start with those Dinwiddy sisters. A lot of promising radio comedies are ruined by the introduction of totally implausible minor characters like the Dinwiddy sisters. Sometimes I wonder if those Hollywood writers ever meet any PEOPLE. Spelled backward that's teddy bear.)

In spite of the overpopulation on the Goodwin show, some of the programs have been very funny indeed. Recently, for example, Goodwin was assigned the task of dissuading the holder of a $100,000 life insurance policy from committing suicide because his girl had scorned him. "There are other fish in the sea," Goodwin points out. "I like the way she wiggles her fins," says the policy holder mororely. "Stand back, I may splash."

Suicide normally isn't a very funny situation, but in this case it was treated in such hard-boiled, literal fashion it was fairly hilarious. "You can't commit suicide after all I've done for you. Where are your manners?" At its best it sounded like good Damon Runyon, and its worst, like bad musical comedy, and what more can you expect from a comedy show?

Goodwin has a pleasant, diffident personality and has picked up a number of shrewd acting tricks. He underplays very skillfully and, when on occasion, he bears down too hard, I'm charitable enough to think that it's because the script demands it. It's not my responsibility to rewrite these things, but I can't resist offering a few suggestions. Simplify the plot, slow down the pace and take it easy, Bub, take it easy.

The current Bill Goodwin Show may or may not survive but I'm confident that Goodwin will. In fact, after consultation with my crystal ball, which is easily the least accurate instrument in the whole history of prophecy, I should like to venture the prediction that Goodwin eventually will develop into one of the top comedians in the business. And now, having laid my curse on him, I'll steal quietly away.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (CP) — Safest bet on Capitol Hill is that the universal military training bill—pigeonholed during the first session of the 80th Congress — will remain where it is in the next session. America's 18 to 20-year-old youths can thus be fairly safely able to plan their civilian careers — unless there be war or serious threat of war.

Even so, if the danger of war should appear, the present bill would be discarded and a more "effective" bill introduced and passed. But neither statesmen nor Capitol Hill leaders scent any powder of a shooting war now.

The Republicans for the most part are dead set against peacetime conscription. So are numerous Democrats. The GOP, however, disclaims, at the top, any intention of weakening national defense. They claim to be thoroughly displeased with the president's bill, calling it "nebulous." Where it "practical," they contend, they would still oppose it as "regimentation."

Chairman Eugene Milliken (R), Colo., of the Senate finance committee, one of the GOP Republican leaders, voiced the views of many when he said:

"I would have to be convinced of the need for compulsory military training first. Then they would have to show me that this bill accomplishes anything definite. It seems to be a theoretical bill to me. No such bill would pass the 80th Congress at any time."

Black market back — The current oil shortage is reviving on a small scale the blackmarketing of petroleum products in some midwestern areas. This is due to shortages caused by a 15 per cent increase in consumption over last year. The increase is due largely to the seasonal demands of farmers to move crops to market by rail. These must have priority over oil shipments on the railroads.

Eastern states need fear no shortage. There are plenty of tankers available to haul petroleum supplies to seaboard states.

AFL leadership — A battle royal may be staged at the San Francisco AFL convention for the presidency of that organization should William Green decide to retire from the post he has held for 23 years.

Chief aspirants are expected to be George Meany, present AFL secretary-treasurer, and John L. Lewis, lately returned to the AFL.

The former has the support of the powerful building trades department of the Federation. He is a member of the plumbers union. His cause may also be supported by Daniel J. Tobin of the Teamsters Union and no great friend of Lewis.

Lewis can depend on the support, of "Big Bill" Hutcheson of the Carpenters, long a potent leader in AFL councils.

Many labor observers believe that Lewis, having won the welfare fund battle with the owners and the miners' best contract in history, is ready to turn the reins of his union over to someone else. He is believed to nurse a secret ambition to head a merged AFL-CIO as a crowning achievement of his embattled history.

Cheaper Meat — Agricultural observers in Washington anticipate a possible drop — not large — in meat prices late this summer, due to an improved outlook on the corn crop. Meat prices generally hinge on corn prices. Early this summer poor weather put a crimp in prospects for a record breaking corn yield. Agriculture department forecasts were gloomy and meat prices bounced despite the fact that summer is normally a period of low meat consumption.

Now the forecast, based on recent weeks of good weather, is that the crop will yield two billion, 771 million bushels. This is an increase of 158 million bushels over July 1 estimates. While the present estimate is 230 million bushels less than the three billion bushels sought for the crop year, it far exceeds normal yields.

Prospects for a bumper wheat crop also may act as a depressant on meat prices.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

If you've been reading these columns, you've probabliy noticed I've been having a big love affair with the City of New York right out in front of everybody.

We've been seen around together, and it's silly to deny it—I'm a pushover for m'lady Manhattan. I can never pass the Washington Bridge, the torch-bearing tootsie on Bedloe Island, or the sun-burned cop at the mouth of the Holland Tunnel without something going click inside me.

Billy Rose

For my money, our telephone directory has the greatest cast of characters ever assembled on any stage. They're all part of a hair-raising show—boiler factory crossed with juke box—and the ticket of admission is a pair of eager eyes.

To keep the show from slowing down in the second act, it has some fabulous villains. But like any show that's box-office, it has people you like in the cast.

As far as my wife and I are concerned our favorite players are a couple who live around the corner from us—Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Reynolds. Whether it's New Potatoes, Idaho or New York, New York, every married couple has another married couple in its life. The Reynolds are ours.

If I call my house and get a busy signal, I know Eleanor is dishing with Virginia—I think they must put in a 40-hour week on that phone.

We've destroyed dozens of each other's dinners, rubbed gallons of sun-tan oil on each other's backs, and coffee-housed over thousands of gin rummy games. To my sorrow, Quent has a dirty habit of grabbing a middle card and knocking on the second pick.

Ginny is one of the prettiest chicks ever hatched—gay as a merry-go-round and strictly a True Blue Lou.

As everybody who reads English knows, Quentin writes like a fire-engine. The big fellow also goes well with good times, good wine and good conversation.

Part of the fun of being around this couple is that they're gloriously goofy about each other. But enough of this valentining. Though the Reynolds are my pet caramel in the Manhattan candy box, I know that the assortment includes nougats and marshmallows, Foxy Grandpas and licorice sticks.

Though I've been wearing long pants since the Hudson-Fulton celebration, this town still makes me feel like a kid on a midway. I've seen the Fitzpatrick travelogues, and there are plenty of foreign hotel stickers on my beat-up suitcases—but I always come back with the same old line—"There's only one Paris, and New York is its name."

THESE DAYS

CONFLICT OF PURPOSE

The ancient method of imperialism was to conquer an area, perhaps to seize it, certainly to colonize it, to establish ports, and to exploit the region and its people commercially. The Phoenicians thus established Carthage; the Greeks dotted the Mediterranean with a thousand cities; Alexander tried to hold the known world of his day; the Roman legions marched through Europe, Asia and Africa, wherever they could. Imperialism is as old as history; colonization is one of the earliest organized efforts of man.

In more modern times, Great Britain, France, Spain and Holland made the world smaller by vast colonization and imperialistic projects in every part of the world. The Western European system involved the bringing of weak and backward peoples into the economic and cultural orbit of Western civilization. As in the instances of North and South America, Australia, New Zealand, and Central Africa, it meant opening altogether new and hitherto unknown areas to contact with Europe. In the instances of such countries as India, China, Egypt, Syria, it resurrected ancient and tottering states.

The resurgence of nationalism in colonial countries today is not a condemnation of imperialism. Rather is it evidence that the impact of Western civilization has benefitted these peoples, has stimulated the powers of self-government, cultivated pride of culture that once had made them significant states. Western imperialism has, on the whole, been historically beneficial to all who have lived in its atmosphere.

Russian imperialism has been essentially different. In the first place, it has dealt entirely with contiguous territory. With one exception, Alaska, the Russians crossed no vast bodies of water, met no obstacles, fought no great wars, subdued no powerful peoples to achieve their ends. They simply snowballed. They rolled along wherever there was a weak spot. They moved across the Urals and Siberia into the Maritime Provinces terminating at Vladivostok because there was nothing to resist them. Small tribes of nomadic peoples, the remnants of the Golden Horde of Genghis Khan were in no condition to withstand their advances. Furthermore, the Russian strain is as much Mongol as Slav, as much Tartar as European. It was easier to absorb than to conquer the Asiatics with whom they dealt. It is still easier.

The Russian southward imperialist trend encountered difficulties. The Armenians resisted. The Rumanians objected to Bessarabia being taken from them. The Moslems looked toward Byzantium and Mecca rather than to Moscow. Nevertheless, all territory was contiguous. It was merely a matter of moving outward the bulkheads of Empire.

By Yalta, Russia achieved her greatest advance, for that agreement gave to the Soviets the maximum aspiration of Czarist imperialism. But Yalta gave to Russia no territory, except perhaps the Kuriles, which do not lie contiguous to Russian soil and the Kuriles are only separated by a narrow body of water.

The Soviet method of imperialistic control is different from that of any Western country, although it is not dissimilar to the spread of the United States from 13 separate colonies to 48 federated states. The "Federation" system—The Union of Socialist Soviet Republics—might from the Russian standpoint encompass the world. For any nation might under certain conditions join the Federation. The Theses on National and Colonial Questions of the Third International states:

"Federation is a transitional form towards the complete union of the workers of all countries . . . . we must strive for ever closer federative connections, bearing in mind first the impossibility of maintaining the Soviet Republic surrounded by powerful imperialist nations, without a close union with other Soviet Republics; second, the necessity of a close economic union of the Soviet Republics, without which the restoration of the forces of production destroyed by imperialism and the assuring of the welfare of the workers is impossible; third, the striving towards the creation of a unified world economy based on one general plan and regulated by the proletariat of all the nations of the world . . ."

Although this plan was laid down several years ago, it is now in practice. Only the existence of the United Nations and the dread of war with the United States prevents Poland, Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia from being absorbed in such a Federation immediately.

Finds Many Retail Stores Have Wartime Hangover With Clerks

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug., 3 — Not long ago Boston's famous cartoonist, Dahl, pictured a well-dressed gentleman standing on his head in a well-known department store trying to attract the attention of some salesgirl. I know how this man felt standing on his head because I have been stood-up myself lately by salespersons—haven't you?

There can be no question but many of our retail stores have a bad war-time hang-over. During the war years most workers had to do double time. There was a shortage of both goods and services. We became accustomed to waiting in line behind the counter. Most customers were tolerant because they understood well the reasons for the lack of service.

Today, however, the quotas in most sales staffs is reasonably well filled. Hence, there is little excuse for the condescending attitude of the salesperson who feels she or he is doing us a favor to wait on us. I overheard one kindly old woman, whom I watched for some minutes trying to get a salesgirl to wait on her, finally retort: "Look a here, girlie, are you mad or just sultry?"

Salesclerks The Real Bottleneck

The salesclerks and travelling salesmen of the nation are a most important factor in determining future business conditions. You don't need to be undecided about the trend of business, just note how salesclerks act. They'll give you the answer. If they are courteous and anxious to serve, general business will be good for another year or two at least. If they are indifferent and slow to serve, look for a falling off in sales, accompanied by gradually increasing unemployment.

One reason for present indifference is the minimum wage laws of various states. Where such minimums are highest, the service is poorest. Because the law prevents penalizing saucy and indifferent clerks with pay cuts, too many clerks don't care what they do or say. I believe in good wages. Every merchant should work for a high wage standard in his city; it helps business. But wages should be adjusted to the service rendered. Fixed wages and hours—either by laws or unions—encourage carelessness and ultimately will bring about general unemployment.

Satisfied Customers Pay Good Dividends

Recent statistics indicate that department store sales may soon be lower than a year ago. With output of factories at extremely high levels and a large part of the urgent demand now over, sales departments must become a more important aspect of every industry. This is one reason why I invest my savings in merchandising chains rather than in factories or railroads.

Babson charts also indicate that the increase in business failures has already grown to a new high as compared to previous years. As retail trade becomes more competitive and customers seek bargains and discounts, or refuse to buy, this trend is likely to continue. This increase in failures is largely due to the sloppy attitude of salesclerks.

Advertising

In the light of current trends, customers can no longer be treated with indifference. After spending money on advertising to attract people into your store to buy, pay more attention to them when they do come in. This will greatly help your advertising to "pull" better and show big profits. Good advertising and good salesclerks should go hand-in-hand like a lock and a key or a hatchet and handle.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Without Opposition

I wonder if anyone has ever accomplished anything worth while without opposition? We have within us at least two natures that are forever struggling with each other. The one that is most triumphant is the nature that we are—that people know us to be. No one, outside our own selves, however, knows about the fight and struggle that keeps going on inside.

It used to be said of President Grover Cleveland that people loved him because of the enemies that he made. But that wasn't it. It was because of the rugged and dogged courage and independence of the man. He it was who once said that a public office was a public trust. Opposition only made Grover Cleveland more determined to assert what he believed to be right.

People go to baseball games, to football contests, to horse races, and other sporting events, to view the sportsmanship that results—contests in which opposition brings out the best—and the winner!

The explorer meets daily opposition, so does the inventor, so does the business man, and so does the statesman. Without opposition humanity would travel backwards. We all meet opposition, and none of us would reserve anything that we gain if we didn't have it. Almost all beauty is the result of opposition. All great art is, no matter how acquired.

It's opposition that stirs the fight within us, that gives us determination, and which brings out the best that we have and are. People listen to the man who says that he welcomes opposition. They know that he is one who is not afraid to talk the truth, or to assert his convictions. It's the opposition that is responsible for every great advance in the rule of the people, and in the establishment of freedom and justice.

Without opposition we would become complainers and weaklings. We would have no lessons to go by. A failure would be a failure, without any incentive to turn it rapidly into a winning event. The late Wendell Willkie introduced a phrase into national politics when he spoke of his party as "the loyal opposition." If all opposition were loyal there would be a different story told each day in our newspapers and over our radios!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3—Hold on! Boris Morros and William Le Baron, the boys who made "Carnegie Hall," have another hot idea. Here it is. The two gents have bought the screen rights to a novel written by — listen carefully — Louis Bromfield, Thomas Mann and Maximilian Ilyin! Yes, I mean these three giants of letters united for a three-cornered collaboration on a story called "Woman Of a Hundred Faces."

Betty Hutton

It's a dramatic story (really a lengthy short story) about a famous European model who was painted by 100 different artists — each portrait revealing her as a different woman. The three authors actually knew the woman. As a matter of fact, Bromfield, Mann and Ilyin could play themselves in the movie.

Barbara Stanwyck had to wait for word from Hal Wallis before she could sign a contract to play "B. F.'s Daughter" the John Marquand best seller. It was originally bought for Katharine Hepburn but with Barbara hotter now than the weather, the MGM bosses felt she was the right gal to play the part.

Missy Stanwyck will have Van Heflin and Richard Hart in the leads opposite her, with Robert Leonard directing and Edwin Knopf producing.

I knew Barbara was negotiating with MGM, but I thought it was for Clark Gable's picture, "Homecoming." Seems I was wrong — it was the Marquand story that had her talking with the MGMers.

Chatter In Hollywood: Joseph Schenck leaves New York Sunday night. Just before he left he sent Mary Pickford back her proxy which gave him power of attorney. Not having received Charlie Chaplin's proxy, Mr. Schenck said he could do nothing for United Artists.

"If I had complete power of attorney," he said, "I might have helped. Without it I cannot do what I planned."

Mary had given Mr. Schenck power of attorney and the right to name the president, and the procedure the company was to take to reorganize, but Charlie, as usual, refused to cooperate. It's too bad for the other producers in United Artists.

When Roscoe Karns was asked to suggest someone to play his son in "Speed To Spare,". he said, "what about my own son, Todd? He's a good actor." So now when Roscoe goes before the cameras for the two Bills, Pine and Thomas, his own son will play his movie son.

Well, all I can say is the two boys ought to be able to act naturally.

Betty Hutton saved her mother from drowning at Lake Arrowhead a few days ago when Mrs. Hutton fell out of a fishing boat while trying to climb on to the pier. Mrs. Hutton can't swim a stroke and got tangled with the reeds in water over her head and was sinking when Betty heard her screams.

Betty pulled her mother out after a scare which will last both of them a lifetime.

Shirley Temple will become an aunt again, two weeks before Shirley's own baby is due in January. Her brother Jack's wife has a date with the stork.

Lucille Ball vacationing in New York was the personal guest of Waldo, designer, at the first television broadcast of California fashions.

It took Harry Revel less than half an hour to write "Birmingham Boogie," the song he turned over to Birmingham hospital, but it's estimated this number will raise $50,000 for this hospital for disabled veterans.

Norma Shaw, who once wrote the "Rambling Reporter," welcomed a baby girl yesterday. She is married to Sam Weisenfeld, manager of General Service Studio.

Harry Siegel, Carman Midanda's brother-in-law, and Gene Austin, the singer, are opening a night club in Las Vegas to be known as Gene Austin's Blue Heaven.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Wives Of Former Servicemen Have Their Problems, Too

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It is not only the unmarried girls, it appears, who seem to feel that the men who went to the wars came back with different personalities. A wife who writes me to comment on the discussion that has been running in this column feels that, while it may be very disturbing to a girl for her boy friend to come home from service a changed person, it is far more difficult when you are married to the problem.

She says:

"I have been reading in your column what the girls think about the ex-GIs, and I agree with them. I am a married woman and have the same problem on my hands, only it is worse, because I live with the problem.

"The married men who were ex-servicemen want to sit in barrooms from morning til night. They flirt with the kind of girls who hang around these places and they go out with them, too. Some of them try to cover themselves up, and others don't care.

"The men also have a 'boss' complex. They take everything that is said to them as bossing, and they have temper fits just like children. They're lazy, and want only easy jobs. They also want to go and come when they please, and the wife is supposed to sit home, carry them around on cushions, and say nothing about their actions.

"I am telling this from experience, and I want to know what we can do about it. There is more nervous strain in living now than there was during the war.

"Divorce isn't the answer, because deep down most married men love their wives, but what is the score? They don't listen to reason, don't believe in doctors or psychiatrists, or anything else, for that matter. Also, a good beating for the wife is a frequent episode and they don't think any apology is necessary.

"This is my plight, and I know of many other women in the same kind of situation."

Now there is certainly no doubt that there are many women in distressing situations of the kind described in this letter. But I wouldn't be willing to agree that it is a typical set of circumstances created by ex-GI husbands.

I think that the proportion of normal servicemen who come home to spend their time in barrooms, who beat their wives and put on tempermental scenes, is relatively small. Nothing that I have observed, or read, has led me to believe that this sort of thing is very common among men who took an active part in the war. I believe, further, that where such situations do exist, the men in question would either have made that type of husband whether they went to war or not, or they returned so emotionally disturbed as to be actually mentally ill persons.

Where the latter is the case, and as the writer of this letter suggests, the man refuses to admit his disability and consult a doctor or psychiatrist, it certainly creates an extremely serious problem for a wife. Perhaps this is what has happened with this particular woman's husband.

My suggestion to her, if this is the fact, and to any other wife faced with such a situation, is that they consult a doctor or psychiatrist themselves, if their husbands refuse to do so. If they do this, they will certainly be in a much better position to handle the problem intelligently than if they simply go blindly along without knowing what the best attitude is for them to take. It is possible that if a wife does seek advice from those qualified to give it to her, her behavior in relationship to her husband can be so guided that, eventually, he may be prevailed on to realize his own need for help.

I definitely suggest to this correspondent that she have the initiative to take such a step herself and find out how she can best help her husband back to normal.

"I am telling this from experience, and I want to know what we can do about it. There is more nervous strain in living now than there was during the war.

"Divorce isn't the answer, because deep down most married men love their wives, but what is the score? They don't listen to reason, don't believe in doctors or psychiatrists, or anything else, for that matter. Also, a good beating for the wife is a frequent episode and they don't think any apology is necessary.

"This is my plight, and I know of many other women in the same kind of situation."

Now there is certainly no doubt that there are many women in distressing situations of the kind described in this letter. But I wouldn't be willing to agree that it is a typical set of circumstances created by ex-GI husbands.

I think that the proportion of normal servicemen who come home to spend their time in barrooms, who beat their wives and put on tempermental scenes, is relatively small. Nothing that I have observed, or read, has led me to believe that this sort of thing is very common among men who took an active part in the war. I believe, further, that where such situations do exist, the men in question would either have made that type of husband whether they went to war or not, or they returned so emotionally disturbed as to be actually mentally ill persons.

Where the latter is the case, and as the writer of this letter suggests, the man refuses to admit his disability and consult a doctor or psychiatrist, it certainly creates an extremely serious problem for a wife. Perhaps this is what has happened with this particular woman's husband.

My suggestion to her, if this is the fact, and to any other wife faced with such a situation, is that they consult a doctor or psychiatrist themselves, if their husbands refuse to do so. If they do this, they will certainly be in a much better position to handle the problem intelligently than if they simply go blindly along without knowing what the best attitude is for them to take. It is possible that if a wife does seek advice from those qualified to give it to her, her behavior in relationship to her husband can be so guided that, eventually, he may be prevailed on to realize his own need for help.

I definitely suggest to this correspondent that she have the initiative to take such a step herself and find out how she can best help her husband back to normal.

Defense-Victory Medals Available For Navy Veterans

Approximately 100 American Defense medals and 800 Victory Medals are available at the local Navy recruiting station, Post office Building, for presentation to eligible Navy veterans, according to Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, local Navy recruiter.

Only honorably discharged veterans who served in the Navy on active duty between September 8, 1939, and December 7, 1941, are eligible for the American Defense medal. Honorably discharged veterans on active duty between December 7, 1941, and December 31, 1946, may receive the Victory medal.

Veterans must bring their discharge certificates when applying for the medals. No medals will be issued through the mails. Chief Schrader said five Victory Medals were issued yesterday.

Chief Schrader also announced that four area men who enlisted recently in the regular Navy for apprentice seamen have been transferred to the training center at Great Lakes, Ill., for recruit training.

The young men, all 17, each of whom enlisted for three years, are Vincent Leroy Crowe, Route 3, Bowman's Addition; Earl Edward Twigg, Route $, Cresaptown; Charles William Stonebreaker, 119 West Oldtown Road; and Homer Kenton Stanley, Vindex.

Albert Wade Jones, 19, Moorefield, W. Va., enlisted yesterday as a seaman second class. He served in the Navy 18 months during World War II.

Silvious Brothers Will Receive Hearing Today

Two brothers, both of 39 Offutt Street, Randolph and Herbert Silvious, will be tried this morning in Police Court on charges of disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $10 for each man.

City police arrested the pair Saturday after a warrant had been obtained by Jennie Twigg, 38 Elder Street. Another brother and the trio's parents were summoned to appear in Juvenile Court today.

Randolph Silvious was fined last Wednesday on a charge of resisting arrest and Herbert paid a $5 fine for loitering after they had been arrested following a disturbance in Community Park on Tuesday night.

Answer Is Filed To Fireman's Suit

Named defendants in a $25,000 damage suit entered in District Court of the United States June 2 by a discharged fireman, Local 448, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, officers of the local, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad have filed an answer.

The action was filed by Earl Evans Cooley, 506 Maryland Avenue, who alleges that he was employed by the B. and O. from May 11, 1944, to about January 4, 1946, as a fireman and was then discharged improperly. The Brotherhood, of which Cooley was a member, failed to uphold its obligation to present his grievance, he asserts.

The defendants replied that no rights of the plaintiff have been violated by them.

William Ford, 24, Moorefield, W. Va., negro, suffered a possible fracture of the right leg when a horse fell on him, and Mack England, 21, Texarkana, Texas, received a possible fracture of the right collarbone when "bucked" from a bronco. Both were brought to Memorial Hospital. Attaches said both men were injured at the rodeo being sponsored by the Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Department.

Defense-Victory Medals Available For Navy Veterans

Approximately 100 American Defense medals and 800 Victory Medals are available at the local Navy recruiting station, Post office Building, for presentation to eligible Navy veterans, according to Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, local Navy recruiter.

Only honorably discharged veterans who served in the Navy on active duty between September 8, 1939, and December 7, 1941, are eligible for the American Defense medal. Honorably discharged veterans on active duty between December 7, 1941, and December 31, 1946, may receive the Victory medal.

Veterans must bring their discharge certificates when applying for the medals. No medals will be issued through the mails. Chief Schrader said five Victory Medals were issued yesterday.

Chief Schrader also announced that four area men who enlisted recently in the regular Navy for apprentice seamen have been transferred to the training center at Great Lakes, Ill., for recruit training.

The young men, all 17, each of whom enlisted for three years, are Vincent Leroy Crowe, Route 3, Bowman's Addition; Earl Edward Twigg, Route $, Cresaptown; Charles William Stonebreaker, 119 West Oldtown Road; and Homer Kenton Stanley, Vindex.

Albert Wade Jones, 19, Moorefield, W. Va., enlisted yesterday as a seaman second class. He served in the Navy 18 months during World War II.

Silvious Brothers Will Receive Hearing Today

Two brothers, both of 39 Offutt Street, Randolph and Herbert Silvious, will be tried this morning in Police Court on charges of disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $10 for each man.

City police arrested the pair Saturday after a warrant had been obtained by Jennie Twigg, 38 Elder Street. Another brother and the trio's parents were summoned to appear in Juvenile Court today.

Randolph Silvious was fined last Wednesday on a charge of resisting arrest and Herbert paid a $5 fine for loitering after they had been arrested following a disturbance in Community Park on Tuesday night.

Moose Tossers Capture Keyser Softball Title

Defeat V. F. W., 5-4, Earn Trip To Elkins

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 3 — Bill Ward's single scoring Clevenger in the last of the 7th inning produced the run that gave the tossers of Keyser Moose Lodge No. 662 a 5 to 4 decision over the Keyser Veterans of Foreign Wars today and gave the winners the right to represent the Keyser section in the state softball tournament at Elkins later in the month.

The Moose aggregation spotted the Vets four runs in the first four innings and then staged a sensational uphill battle to win the game at Keyser High School field before a large crowd.

Trailing 4-0 the Moose team registered twice in the fourth and tied the opposition in the 6th when "Bud" Mosser slammed a homer with a teammate aboard. In the 7th Jim Clevenger doubled, went to third on "Es" Dorsey's fielder's choice and galloped home with the winning tally on Ward's base hit to left field.

Manager Russell Bishop's champions obtained seven hits off Ravensscroft, three of the bingles being credited to Clevenger. Bill Fortney held the Vets to four hits and fielded his position brilliantly, making several nice stops of hard drives through the box.

Simone, VFW third sacker, starred afield by handling several hard smashes in faultless fashion.

Prior to defeating the VFW in the finals, Keyser Moose defeated Old Fields, 29 to 2, and the Royale Dairy of Keyser, 4-3. Box:

WESTVACO AWARDED OMAHA TRIP AFTER TEAM WITHDRAWS

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 3—(AP)—After twice defeating the Delaware championship Odessa Bears in a Maryland-Delaware semi-pro baseball tournament here the Frederick, Md., Hustlers withdrew from competition and the Westvaco team of Westernport, Md., was awarded the right to compete in the National Baseball Congress in Omaha, Neb., August 17.

The Hustlers, Maryland title holders, were scheduled to meet the Westvaco nine tomorrow night.

The Hustlers eliminated the Bears from tournament play by a 6-1 decision last night and a second win, 12-2, this afternoon.

A fourth team expected to take part—Post 615, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wilmington, Del.—notified Williams at the last minute that it would be unable to play.

John W. Williams, commissioner of semi-pro baseball for the two states, said the Hustlers' withdrawal was due to the fact that the players had jobs they couldn't leave to go to Omaha.

Cubs Jolt Dodgers, 6-0; Cards Gain On Leaders

Brooklyn Drops 3rd In Row; St. Louis Tops Phils; Greenberg Hits Three Homers; Yanks Boost Lead

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP) — The streaky Brooklyn Dodgers are working on another skein today but this time its a losing one instead of a winning string.

Manager Burt Shotton's battling crew dropped their third in a row to the Chicago Cubs today as southpaw Johnny Schmitz shut them out, 6-0 on seven hits.

The Brooks entered Chicago boasting a 13 game winning streak and a 10-game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants but due to the Cubs' three straight triumphs, and three consecutive Cardinal victories, the Brooks lead the field by only seven games today.

Schmitz Presented Auto

Schmitz, who was presented with an automobile before the game by the homefolks of Wausau, Wis., allowed only three hits in the first seven innings.

The Cubs were held in check by Ralph Branca until the fifth when they ripped the visiting righthander for three runs on four hits.

The Cardinals outslugged the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-8 at St. Louis. The Red Birds piled up an 8-2 lead but the Phils came back with four runs in the eighth to drive starter Ken Burkhart from the hill. Al Brazle and Ted Wilks also saw action in this frame and when the Phils threatened again in the ninth, Murry Dickson was rushed in to quell the uprising. Harry Walker and Del Ennis homered for the Phils and Whitey Kurowski for the Cards.

At Pittsburgh, the home run hitting New York Giants remained a half game back of the Cards by defeating the Pirates, 11-8 and then battling the Bucs to a 6-6 tie in the second game of the twin bill that was halted at the end of eight innings because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew.

Hank Hits Three Homers

The Giants scored five runs in the fourth of the opener and were never headed despite Greenberg's bases loaded homer in the sixth.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees increased their American League lead to 13½ games over the Boston Red Sox by downing the Cleveland Indians, 5-4 while the Sox took a 10-3 drubbing from the Detroit Tigers in Boston.

The Tigers hammered five Red Sox pitchers for 16 hits including a two-run homer by Hoot Evers while Hal Newhouser scattered 10 blows

40,000 To See Scrap; "Ike" Is Favorite

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Hard-hitting Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., and Bobcat Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, get down to cases tomorrow night to settle the dispute over the lightweight championship of the world.

Williams, the NBA 135-pound titleholder, has been established a slight favorite over Montgomery who holds recognition as king of the division in New York and Pennsylvania. Montgomery kayoed Williams three years ago in the final seconds of a 12-round fight but neither held a claim to the title then.

The broad-shouldered Trenton negro has looked very impressive in his last few starts and that combined with his four-year advantage in age—he's 24 and Montgomery is 28—has made him the choice in the 15-round bout.

At Bridgeport, Conn., Tuesday night, Marty Servo, former welterweight champion from Schenectady, N. Y., who has started a comeback campaign, tackles Joe Demartino of Bridgeport in a ten-rounder.

Shockey, Sheetz Hounds Win Third Field Trial Here

Meyersdale Buglette, Sheetz's Tim Score

Meyersdale Buglette, owned by R. F. Shockey, of Meyersdale, Pa., was judged the winner in the 13 inch class and Sheetz's Tim, owned by Elmer Sheetz, of Cumberland, finished first in the big dog class in the third of a series of field trials for the club championship held yesterday by the Allegany Beagle Club.

Thirty-four hounds were entered with 22 13-inch hounds competing in the forenoon and 12 fifteen inchers running in the afternoon on the club grounds on McMullen Highway.

Both the entries and spectators were fewer than in previous trials due to the extremely hot and humid weather. This also caused game to be hard to find and made poor running conditions for the hounds. In spite of this handicap a number of good runs were enjoyed by the gallery of approximately fifty beagle fanciers.

Judging was capably handled by Harry Truxel of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., one of the leading beagle judges in the east, assisted by W. R. Goebel of Frostburg.

The fourth and final qualifying trial of the series will be held September 21 with the winners' stake, which will be open only to hounds placing in the four preceding trials, following later in the season. Allegany also will hold a "Plan A" AKC sanctioned trial on October 18 and 19. The results:

SYCKES WINS OVER BERSEIN TO ANNEX CITY SINGLES CROWN

Dua Scores, 6-1, 6-4; Takes Little Trophy

Lua Syckes blasted his way to the city tennis championship, yesterday on the Dingle courts by defeating Maurice Bernstein in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

Syckes was not worried by Bernstein's drop shots like he was when Bernstein defeated him recently for the Dingle court championship, and at critical times he was able to uncork drives and volleys that Bernstein could not return.

The men's singles for the city championship was won last year by Homer Lowenberg. Other former winners were Lawrence Middlecamp, Ross Palmer, Charles Jones, Russell Ponton and Bernstein.

Walter Davis and Harold Brown, on the Garlitz courts yesterday afternoon, in a semi-final men's doubles match for the city championship, eliminated Ed. Harvey and Eugene Winters, 10-8, 6-2.

Davis and Brown now play Robert Bane and Lua Syckes in the finals.

Westvaco's pace-setting team retained its one-game lead in the Bi-State Baseball League by nosing out the scrappy Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen by the score of 4 to 3 in Memorial Park, Westernport, yesterday before 1,200 spectators.

The victory was the third registered by Manager Frankie Sullivan's club over the Pennsylvanians this season.

A three-run outburst in the sixth inning put the game on ice for the Papermakers. "Bud" Mosser started the rally by hitting safely and scoring on Harry Sallada's two-bagger. Yewcic beat out a bunt and Sallada advanced to third. Bill See chased Miller almost to centerfield fence to gather in his long drive. It looked like a sure extra wallop and Sallada, who was homeward bound, raced back to third after the catch. Then Leo Ryan laid down a bunt, scoring Sallada with the tying run and George Pattison banged out a hit to score Yewcic with what proved to be the winning tally.

Bruner Smacks Home Run

Mosser's hit and three successive fielder's choices gave Westvaco its initial run in the fourth. Albert "Buck" Bruner's home run clout over the right field fence with Miller aboard gave the Firemen a 2-1 edge in the fifth. Hyndman took a two-run lead in the 6th when Alton Nave was safe on High's error and scored when Bob Cook's single got away from Sallada in left field.

Leo Ryan was forced to leave the game in the 9th when the palm of his pitching hand was injured by a line drive from the bat of Johnny Waltman. Joe Inskeep replaced him and retired the next three batsmen.

Elmer Marsh's one-handed stab of Menges' line drive in the second inning was the best fielding play.

"Boots" Blanks Romney

Cletus "Boots" Poffenberger, ex-major leaguer, registered his third straight triumph since joining the Cumberland Amvets when he turned back the Romney Rockets with five scattered hits, whiffed nine, as Manager Norman Gerdemen's club rolled to a 12-0 triumph at Community Park. The game was limited to seven innings by agreement.

The victors larruped Romney boxmen for 13 hits and a total of 23 bases in the one-sided affair.

Charley Strauss helped himself to a triple and single while Danny Drew and Bob Witt connected for two singles each.

Riehl and Scarpelli featured with sparkling catches in the outfield.

'Coney Takes 4th Place

Claude Steele tossed a six-hitter and threw the third strike past an even dozen as the Lonaconing Republican Club edged the Frostburg V. F. W. in Lonaconing, 5 to 4. The victory gave 'Coney undisputed possession of fourth place with Frostburg and Mt. Savage close on its heels.

Frostburg held a 4-2 lead until the 5th when Bobby "Coco" Blair wild pitched the tying and winning runs over the platter.

Meyers walked to open the 5th and trotted to third on Cameron's single. "Babe" Johnson singled home Meyers and Cameron continued to third. Cooke drew a pass, filling the bases. Then two successive wild pitches by Blair scored Cameron and Johnson with the runs that knotted the count and won the game.

Scarpelli homered for Frostburg in the third and played a bangup fielding game at the keystone sack, handling nine chances without a slipup. Ray Cameron led Coney's 12-hit attack with four singles for a perfect day. Raines' catch of Steele's drive in left field in the 5th was the fielding gem.

Stowell Baffles Brewers

Max Stowell, former Beall High pitching ace, let the Queen City Brewers down with three hits and fanned ten as Mt. Savage won at Stitcher Field, 7 to 1.

Queen City's line tally came in the sixth when Joe Wagner doubled and completed the circuit on infield outs by Harry Minnicks and Bill Stevenson.

George Shaffer, Lashley and Cunningham shared six of Mt. Savage's nine hits. Shaffer turned in the best fielding play when he knocked down Wagner's drive and while lying on his back threw to Stowell at first base to nip the runner.

Barton Scores Second Win

Defeat V. F. W., 5-4, Earn Trip To Elkins

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 3 — Bill Ward's single scoring Clevenger in the last of the 7th inning produced the run that gave the tossers of Keyser Moose Lodge No. 662 a 5 to 4 decision over the Keyser Veterans of Foreign Wars today and gave the winners the right to represent the Keyser section in the state softball tournament at Elkins later in the month.

The Moose aggregation spotted the Vets four runs in the first four innings and then staged a sensational uphill battle to win the game at Keyser High School field before a large crowd.

Trailing 4-0 the Moose team registered twice in the fourth and tied the opposition in the 6th when "Bud" Mosser slammed a homer with a teammate aboard. In the 7th Jim Clevenger doubled, went to third on "Es" Dorsey's fielder's choice and galloped home with the winning tally on Ward's base hit to left field.

Manager Russell Bishop's champions obtained seven hits off Ravensscroft, three of the bingles being credited to Clevenger. Bill Fortney held the Vets to four hits and fielded his position brilliantly, making several nice stops of hard drives through the box.

Simone, VFW third sacker, starred afield by handling several hard smashes in faultless fashion.

Prior to defeating the VFW in the finals, Keyser Moose defeated Old Fields, 29 to 2, and the Royale Dairy of Keyser, 4-3. Box:

WESTVACO AWARDED OMAHA TRIP AFTER TEAM WITHDRAWS

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 3—(AP)—After twice defeating the Delaware championship Odessa Bears in a Maryland-Delaware semi-pro baseball tournament here the Frederick, Md., Hustlers withdrew from competition and the Westvaco team of Westernport, Md., was awarded the right to compete in the National Baseball Congress in Omaha, Neb., August 17.

The Hustlers, Maryland title holders, were scheduled to meet the Westvaco nine tomorrow night.

The Hustlers eliminated the Bears from tournament play by a 6-1 decision last night and a second win, 12-2, this afternoon.

A fourth team expected to take part—Post 615, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wilmington, Del.—notified Williams at the last minute that it would be unable to play.

John W. Williams, commissioner of semi-pro baseball for the two states, said the Hustlers' withdrawal was due to the fact that the players had jobs they couldn't leave to go to Omaha.

WILLIAMS AND MONTGOMERY TO FIGHT FOR TITLE TONIGHT

40,000 To See Scrap; "Ike" Is Favorite

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Hard-hitting Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., and Bobcat Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, get down to cases tomorrow night to settle the dispute over the lightweight championship of the world.

Williams, the NBA 135-pound titleholder, has been established a slight favorite over Montgomery who holds recognition as king of the division in New York and Pennsylvania. Montgomery kayoed Williams three years ago in the final seconds of a 12-round fight but neither held a claim to the title then.

The broad-shouldered Trenton negro has looked very impressive in his last few starts and that combined with his four-year advantage in age—he's 24 and Montgomery is 28—has made him the choice in the 15-round bout.

A crowd of some 40,000 and a gate of over $200,000 is expected for the battle in Philadelphia's mammoth Municipal stadium.

At Bridgeport, Conn., Tuesday night, Marty Servo, former welterweight champion from Schenectady, N. Y., who has started a comeback campaign, tackles Joe Demartino of Bridgeport in a ten-rounder.

Cubs Jolt Dodgers, 6-0; Cards Gain On Leaders

Brooklyn Drops 3rd In Row; St. Louis Tops Phils; Greenberg Hits Three Homers; Yanks Boost Lead

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP) — The streaky Brooklyn Dodgers are working on another skein today but this time its a losing one instead of a winning string.

Manager Burt Shotton's battling crew dropped their third in a row to the Chicago Cubs today as southpaw Johnny Schmitz shut them out, 6-0 on seven hits.

The Brooks entered Chicago boasting a 13 game winning streak and a 10-game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants but due to the Cubs' three straight triumphs, and three consecutive Cardinal victories, the Brooks lead the field by only seven games today.

Schmitz Presented Auto

Schmitz, who was presented with an automobile before the game by the homefolks of Wausau, Wis., allowed only three hits in the first seven innings.

The Cubs were held in check by Ralph Branca until the fifth when they ripped the visiting righthander for three runs on four hits.

The Cardinals outslugged the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-8 at St. Louis. The Red Birds piled up an 8-2 lead but the Phils came back with four runs in the eighth to drive starter Ken Burkhart from the hill. Al Brazle and Ted Wilks also saw action in this frame and when the Phils threatened again in the ninth, Murry Dickson was rushed in to quell the uprising. Harry Walker and Del Ennis homered for the Phils and Whitey Kurowski for the Cards.

At Pittsburgh, the home run hitting New York Giants remained a half game back of the Cards by defeating the Pirates, 11-8 and then battling the Bucs to a 6-6 tie in the second game of the twin bill that was halted at the end of eight innings because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew.

Hank Hits Three Homers

Hank Greenberg of the Pirates, however, stole the play by crashing out three home runs, two in the nightcap, with his final circuit drive tying up the game, seconds before play was halted.

The Giants scored five runs in the fourth of the opener and were never headed despite Greenberg's bases loaded homer in the sixth.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees increased their American League lead to 13½ games over the Boston Red Sox by downing the Cleveland Indians, 5-4 while the Sox took a 10-3 drubbing from the Detroit Tigers in Boston.

The Tigers hammered five Red Sox pitchers for 16 hits including a two-run homer by Hoot Evers while Hal Newhouser scattered 10 blows

Shockey, Sheetz Hounds Win Third Field Trial Here

Meyersdale Buglette, Sheetz's Tim Score

Meyersdale Buglette, owned by R. F. Shockey, of Meyersdale, Pa., was judged the winner in the 13 inch class and Sheetz's Tim, owned by Elmer Sheetz, of Cumberland, finished first in the big dog class in the third of a series of field trials for the club championship held yesterday by the Allegany Beagle Club.

Thirty-four hounds were entered with 22 13-inch hounds competing in the forenoon and 12 fifteen inchers running in the afternoon on the club grounds on McMullen Highway.

Both the entries and spectators were fewer than in previous trials due to the extremely hot and humid weather. This also caused game to be hard to find and made poor running conditions for the hounds. In spite of this handicap a number of good runs were enjoyed by the gallery of approximately fifty beagle fanciers.

Judging was capably handled by Harry Truxel of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., one of the leading beagle judges in the east, assisted by W. R. Goebel of Frostburg.

The fourth and final qualifying trial of the series will be held September 21 with the winners' stake, which will be open only to hounds placing in the four preceding trials, following later in the season. Allegany also will hold a "Plan A" AKC sanctioned trial on October 18 and 19. The results:

SYCKES WINS OVER BERSEIN TO ANNEX CITY SINGLES CROWN

Dua Scores, 6-1, 6-4; Takes Little Trophy

Lua Syckes blasted his way to the city tennis championship, yesterday on the Dingle courts by defeating Maurice Bernstein in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

Syckes was not worried by Bernstein's drop shots like he was when Bernstein defeated him recently for the Dingle court championship, and at critical times he was able to uncork drives and volleys that Bernstein could not return.

Syckes while always in the final rounds of local tournaments won his first city championship yesterday and a leg on the S. T. Little Jewelry Company trophy.

The men's singles for the city championship was won last year by Homer Lowenberg. Other former winners were Lawrence Middlecamp, Ross Palmer, Charles Jones, Russell Ponton and Bernstein.

Walter Davis and Harold Brown, on the Garlitz courts yesterday afternoon, in a semi-final men's doubles match for the city championship, eliminated Ed. Harvey and Eugene Winters, 10-8, 6-2.

Davis and Brown now play Robert Bane and Lua Sykes in the finals.

Westvaco's pace-setting team retained its one-game lead in the Bi-State Baseball League by nosing out the scrappy Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen by the score of 4 to 3 in Memorial Park, Westernport, yesterday before 1,200 spectators.

The victory was the third registered by Manager Frankie Sullivan's club over the Pennsylvanians this season.

A three-run outburst in the sixth inning put the game on ice for the Papermakers. "Bud" Mosser started the rally by hitting safely and scoring on Harry Sallada's two-bagger. Yewcic beat out a bunt and Sallada advanced to third. Bill See chased Miller almost to centerfield fence to gather in his long drive. It looked like a sure extra wallop and Sallada, who was homeward bound, raced back to third after the catch. Then Leo Ryan laid down a bunt, scoring Sallada with the tying run and George Pattison banged out a hit to score Yewcic with what proved to be the winning tally.

Bruner Smacks Home Run

Mosser's hit and three successive fielder's choices gave Westvaco its initial run in the fourth. Albert "Buck" Bruner's home run clout over the right field fence with Miller aboard gave the Firemen a 2-1 edge in the fifth. Hyndman took a two-run lead in the 6th when Alton Nave was safe on High's error and scored when Bob Cook's single got away from Sallada in left field.

Leo Ryan was forced to leave the game in the 9th when the palm of his pitching hand was injured by a line drive from the bat of Johnny Waltman. Joe Inskeep replaced him and retired the next three batsmen.

Mosser and Sallada shared six of Westvaco's 10 safeties.

Elmer Marsh's one-handed stab of Menges' line drive in the second inning was the best fielding play.

"Boots" Blanks Romney

Cletus "Boots" Poffenberger, ex-major leaguer, registered his third straight triumph since joining the Cumberland Amvets when he turned back the Romney Rockets with five scattered hits, whiffed nine, as Manager Norman Gerdemen's club rolled to a 12-0 triumph at Community Park. The game was limited to seven innings by agreement.

The victors larruped Romney boxmen for 13 hits and a total of 23 bases in the one-sided affair.

William "Bee" Scarpelli belted a homer to deep right field with two aboard in the fourth and drove in another run with a single. Lou Riehl teed off and lined one over the right field barrier for four cushions in addition to a two-base knock.

Charley Strauss helped himself to a triple and single while Danny Drew and Bob Witt connected for two singles each.

Riehl and Scarpelli featured with sparkling catches in the outfield.

'Coney Takes 4th Place

Claude Steele tossed a six-hitter and threw the third strike past an even dozen as the Lonaconing Republican Club edged the Frostburg V. F. W. in Lonaconing, 5 to 4. The victory gave 'Coney undisputed possession of fourth place with Frostburg and Mt. Savage close on its heels.

Frostburg held a 4-2 lead until the 5th when Bobby "Coco" Blair wild pitched the tying and winning runs over the platter.

Meyers walked to open the 5th and trotted to third on Cameron's single. "Babe" Johnson singled home Meyers and Cameron continued to third. Cooke drew a pass, filling the bases. Then two successive wild pitches by Blair scored Cameron and Johnson with the runs that knotted the count and won the game.

Scarpelli homered for Frostburg in the third and played a bangup fielding game at the keystone sack, handling nine chances without a slipup. Ray Cameron led Coney's 12-hit attack with four singles for a perfect day. Raines' catch of Steele's drive in left field in the 5th was the fielding gem.

Stowell Baffles Brewers

Max Stowell, former Beall High pitching ace, let the Queen City Brewers down with three hits and fanned ten as Mt. Savage won at Stitcher Field, 7 to 1.

Queen City's line tally came in the sixth when Joe Wagner doubled and completed the circuit on infield outs by Harry Minnicks and Bill Stevenson.

George Shaffer, Lashley and Cunningham shared six of Mt. Savage's nine hits. Shaffer turned in the best fielding play when he knocked down Wagner's drive and while lying on his back threw to Stowell at first base to nip the runner.

Barton Scores Second Win

Barton's American Legion tossers scored their second victory of the season at the expense of the Midland Red Sox, 10-4, at Barton.

Leo Bradley has scored both of Barton's victories this season. He scattered ten hits while his mates banged out 13, Kolish heading the assault with two doubles and two singles in four trips. Brady garnered three bingles for Midland.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, neighbors and priests of St. Michael's parish, who were so kind to us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband, father, son, and brother, Bernard P. Carter. We also wish to thank those who sent floral offerings, Mass cards, and loaned cars for the funeral.
The Carter Family,
Frostburg.

We take this means of expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, Alfred Rizer. We are grateful for the many floral tributes, the use of motor cars for the funeral, and to all others who in any manner assisted us.
Mrs. Alfred Rizer and Family,
Zihlman, Md.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Husband and Father, Dacie Cox, who died two years ago today, August 4, 1945.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near;
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.
Our love cannot tell how we miss him;
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In our lonesome hearts today.
He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.
God knows how much we miss him;
Never shall his memory fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid.

Sadly missed by his wife and children, Erma Cox and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, neighbors and priests of St. Michael's parish, who were so kind to us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband, father, son, and brother, Bernard P. Carter. We also wish to thank those who sent floral offerings, Mass cards, and loaned cars for the funeral.
The Carter Family,
Frostburg.

We take this means of expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, Alfred Rizer. We are grateful for the many floral tributes, the use of motor cars for the funeral, and to all others who in any manner assisted us.
Mrs. Alfred Rizer and Family,
Zihlman, Md.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Husband and Father, Dacie Cox, who died two years ago today, August 4, 1945.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near;
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.
Our love cannot tell how we miss him;
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In our lonesome hearts today.
He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.
God knows how much we miss him;
Never shall his memory fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid.

Sadly missed by his wife and children, Edna Cox and Family.

Bruce High Junior Dies Of Accidental Gun Shot

Police Say Friend Discharged Shotgun

A 16-year-old Westernport high school student who police said was accidentally shot by a hunting companion, died yesterday at 2:40 p. m. en route to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., according to Maryland State Police.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Charles Pierson Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Welsh, 463 Spruce Street, Westernport, died of an intra-abdominal hemorrhage and a shattered spine in the lumbar region from wounds accidentally inflicted by Roy T. Winters, also 16, Allegany High School student, who was spending the summer with a brother in Rawlings.

Hunting Groundhogs

Cpl. Thomas Veditz, Maryland State Police, said Welsh was shot by his companion as they walked down a section of the Western Maryland Railway track about two and a half miles southwest of Rawlings where they had been hunting groundhogs with Welsh's younger brother, Oran Welsh, Jr., 14.

The Welsh brothers, according to police, left home about 8 a. m. yesterday to visit Winters, a former school chum of the older boy. The three youths embarked on a hunting trip about noon, police said, but after several hours of hunting decided to return home by walking down the tracks.

Welsh was walking about two yards ahead of Winters, who was carrying a 12-gauge shotgun, and his younger brother, police explained, when Winters tripped over a railroad tie.

As Winters fell he threw his left hand up to catch the gun, which he was carrying in his right hand, but he touched the trigger and discharged the gun, according to Cpl. Veditz.

Dr. Deming said the discharge entered Welsh's body above the left hip and penetrated through the abdomen to the lumbar region of the spine. He said the shot did not emerge from the other side.

Welsh's brother ran to the home of G. W. Northcroft, about a half mile up the track to summon help, police said. Northcroft and his brother, H. E. Northcroft, Cumberland, returned to the scene and put the youth in their car to take him to the hospital.

Died En Route To Hospital

Both Winters and Welsh's brother accompanied the wounded youth to the hospital, and the medical examiner said he was told Welsh "made his last gasp for breath," as they crossed the McCoole bridge on the way to the hospital. Attaches said the victim was dead when admitted.

Authorities said they were informed by Welsh's parents, both Celanese of America Corporation employes, that Winters and their son had been school mates at Bruce High School for two years before Winters began attending Allegany High in Cumberland last year.

The three youths, according to police, fired several shots from the gun while they were in the woods, and said a shell was accidentally left in the gun as they started home. Police said Winters had used the gun on previous hunting trips.

Police identified Welsh as a member of the Bruce High School track and soccer teams and said they had been informed by his parents that he took a keen interest in hunting and fishing.

State Police said Winters will be questioned in the office of the State's Attorney this morning.

Besides his parents and brother, Welsh is survived by another brother, Arthur Welsh, 9, a sister, Marguerite Ann Welsh, 7, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welsh, Westernport.

He was a member of the Assembly of God Pentecostal Church, Westernport.

Woman Injured In Automobile Mishap

A Springfield, W. Va., woman was admitted to Memorial Hospital at 9 o'clock last night for treatment of neck injury sustained in an automobile mishap at 8:30 p. m. on Route 28, one-half mile from Fort Ashby.

Hospital attaches said the woman, Mrs. Joseph Taylor, 25, was thrown to the other side of the car in which she was riding when an oncoming motorist forced the machine off the road. She is reported as being in "fair condition."

Francis Puhalla, 37, 214 Eutaw Street, a B. and O. brakeman, was treated for an injury of his left arm at Allegany Hospital yesterday. Puhalla hurt his arm on a coal hopper in the local yards Saturday.

Kelly Union Votes To Continue Talks On 'Vital Issues'

Workers Reject Tenative Contract

Members of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Lineoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, yesterday unanimously voted to have the Negotiating Committee return proposed contract amendments to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and continue negotiations of "certain vital issues."

E. A. Johnson, president of the union and chairman of the Negotiating Committee, declared that he did not feel at liberty to discuss the issues "until after I have informed the company of the members' decision."

Company representatives, according to Johnson, will be given official information of the members' decision this morning. Johnson said he did not know when negotiations will be resumed but declared the union and company representatives will decide on the next meeting this morning.

The proposed contract amendments were submitted to the union membership yesterday after the company and union committee representatives tentatively agreed following six weeks of negotiation.

The amendments were taken up after the present contract which has been in effect since 1941 was permitted to continue by agreement of the company and the union.

The Kelly local began negotiations on some 19 suggested amendments to its present working agreement some six weeks ago, Johnson stated, adding that during the past few meetings three main issues have been under discussion.

The issues were defined as severance pay, vacation and a furlough clause, including the reduction of hours of work before furlough may be placed into effect at the Kelly plant.

Johnson explained that while the issues were referred back for further negotiations no labor trouble is expected to develop over the contract amendments.

Yestrday's meeting, which Johnson said was "well attended," lasted for four hours.

Soil Conservation Service Will Mark 10th Anniversary

The Brown Creek Soil Conservation District, the first farmer-voted and farmer-managed soil conservation district, was organized by farmers of Anson County, North Carolina, 10 years ago today.

During the decade, some 1,900 other districts have been formed by farmers in our 48 states and Puerto Rica, Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, announced.

Dr. Bennett, who was one of the speakers at the Conservation Forum held in Cumberland November 3, 1945, said the action by the Anson County farmers marked the beginning of a movement which can insure the permanence of our nation. It provides, he said, for the permanent security of a basic resource of our nation — productive soil — without which it cannot survive.

Includes Most Farms

The districts now cover more than a billion acres, including 60 per cent of the country's farmland, more than one-half of its total land area and about four and one-half million, or three-fourths of the nation's farms and ranches.

The service has assisted farmers in developing more than half a million farm plans—blueprints for the treatment and use of the land according to its needs and capabilities.

Over 50 different conservation measures are used, including contour tilling and planting, crop rotations, strip covering, terracing, range and pasture treatment, farm woodland management, drainage and irrigation and wildlife improvement.

Operations Begin Here

Allegany County's Soil Conservation District was formed in 1941 and field operations began the following year, according to Philip J. Walter, soil conservationist of the district.

The 210 co-operators in the county are making steady progress in conservation here, reports indicate. Here, as elsewhere, the task is scarcely begun since the job ahead is so tremendous.

Dr. Bennett, in commenting on the anniversary of the service, termed conservation the "way of solving" the land problem, adding the locally organized and managed soil conservation districts, such as Allegany District, can handle the agricultural land of this country in the best interests of the entire nation.

During the past few years, the soil conservation movement has gained an added impetus from the realization on the part of the public of how vital our land resources are to the future of the American nation.

City Police Make Check For Liquor Violations

Gambling Inspection Made Previously

A three-hour investigation yesterday by City Police of approximately 30 local "clubs" holding liquor licenses failed to reveal one violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Law forbidding Sunday sales, a participating officer disclosed last night.

The inspection, according to the Police Department, followed a check Friday night on civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations to determine if gaming devices were being maintained.

Police officials said Detective Edwin R. Lilya and Sgt. Frank Shober made the inspection using "standing" warrants to enter the clubs.

Officials asserted that the reports of the two officers stated that only four clubs were open at the time of the inspection, but declared a spot check was made later to "satisfy" department heads that the clubs had not closed for a brief period.

"Plainclothes" Probe Rumored

A reliable source declared he was reasonably sure a "tip off' had not preceded the inspection, but said rumors of a "plainclothers investigation" in the city may have been responsible for many of the clubs being closed.

The source said he had no knowledge of the investigation other than the fact that he has heard "street talk" and supposed many of the clubs had heard similar rumors.

In the clubs that were open police reports stated that few persons were patronizing the bars and said "soft drinks" were very much in evidence.

Officials stated that the investigation started at 10 a. m. and continued until all of the clubs listed were inspected, which was about 1 p. m. The investigating officers returned to a few clubs that had not been open during the earlier calls, department officials stated, but the doors were still locked and the clubs void of patrons.

Looked For Slot Machines

The Friday night check was carried out by the same officers who, authorities said, made a thorough check to determine if clubs were maintaining gaming devices. One official said the gaming devices for which the inspectors were watching closest were slot machines.

During the April term of Circuit Court several alleged "slot machine operators" were indicated by the grand jury and subsequently fined on charges of either maintaining, operating or possessing the gaming devices.

Prior to that time gambling through the media of the slot machine was reported to be ram[illegible] in the county, but many sot "close to the easy money groups" declared "gamblers in this area suffered a severe curtailment" which they predicted would last for "some time to come," following the fining of the "operators."

Police last night were reluctant to discuss the inspections of yesterday and Friday, but indicated that gambling and violations of the Alcoholic Beverage Law will be curbed immediately if and when they appear in the city.

Police Recover Stolen Car Used In City Thefts

Officers Blame 3 Robberies On 'Gang'

City Police yesterday declared that they have recovered a stolen car believed to be the one used in three robberies and two breaking and enterings in the city early Saturday morning, according to Assistant Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

Flynn said that investigating officers have received reports that the machine was seen at each of the three places that were robbed, and declared Sgt. R. R. Johnson and himself recovered the stolen car in an alley at the rear of Mary Street Saturday.

Used Car Tags

The recovered machine, a 1936 Chevrolet coupe was stolen from Gulick's Auto Exchange, 305 South Mechanic Street, according to investigating officers. Flynn said the car still had "used car" license plates on it when recovered.

Police said that statements taken from the proprietors of the three places robbed indicated that approximately $60 was taken during the three breaking and enterings. While the other two places were ransacked, nothing was taken, police said.

The three places where money was taken were listed by police as Liberty Dairy, corner of Fifth and Race Streets; H. V. Courtney's store, 915 Maryland Avenue, and Public Service Market, North George Street.

According to police the Dingle Drug Store, Greene Street, and the Virginia Tavern, 237 Virginia Avenue, were also broken into early Saturday morning.

Flynn said that all the places had been entered by a gang using a small bar to pry open doors and windows. Marks at all the locations were identical, according to officers.

3 Youths Confess

Flynn said three juveniles, two local and a West Virginia boy, admitted to twice breaking into the City Ice and Fuel Company on Thursday night and again Friday night. The youths, according to police, stole $7 the first time and 11 cents the second.

Police said the three youths were released in the custody of their parents after the parents promised to return the money and pay for the damage the youths caused in breaking into the building.

According to Detective Edwin R. Lilya the boys told him they used a "bean shooter" to break a window in the rear of the building through which they entered.

Dr. North, Father Of Md. High School System, Succumbs

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3 — (AP) — Dr. Samuel M. North, first Maryland high school supervisor, died today at the age of 78 in the Fort Howard Veterans Hospital where he had been a patient for some time.

Dr. North, a native of Baltimore, was credited generally with establishing Maryland's high school system. He was appointed first supervisor in 1916 and served in the same post, except for service in the First World War, until 1933 when he retired.

Dr. North then joined the faculty of the McDonogh School and taught there for 14 years.

He had degrees from Columbia University and Western Maryland College.

Dr. North started his long teaching career at Polytechnic Institute, staying there from 1898 until 1914 when he was appointed principal of the Reisterstown High School.

He was a former president of the Maryland State Teachers Association, former secretary of the Educational Society of Baltimore and a member of the American Association of School Administrators and the National Education Association.

His widow, Mrs. Francis Doub North, is a teacher at Western High School. He is also survived by a daughter and two brothers.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow and burial will be in Middletown.

Mark McCauley Will Be Sentenced At Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 3 — The West Virginia Supreme Court has reported that no petition has been made for the rehearing of the case of Mark McCauley, who was convicted of the slaying of State Police Sgt. Joseph Horne.

The court handed down a unanimous opinion July 1 denying McCauley a new trial, but the law provides that a petition for rehearing could be filed within 30 days.

The next step will be the sending of a mandate from the Supreme Court to the Mineral County Circuit Court officially notifying the court here that a plea for a new trial has been denied.

Judge Ernest A. See plans to have McCauley brought from the West Virginia Penitentiary back to Keyser for resentencing. The jury verdict did not recommend mercy, leaving Judge See no alternate but to sentence the man to hang.

McCauley's only recourse is a plea for clemency to Governor Clarence W. Meadows.

Judge See said McCauley would be brought to Keyser shortly after the Supreme Court mandate is received here. This should be in the next week or two, he added.

State Will Prefer Murder Charge Against Hoover In Layman's Death

James W. Hoover, 28, Jennings truck driver, who police said admits he deliberately ran over Elzie F. Layman, 49, Garrett County farmer, and left him dying on Route 40, will be charged with murder at a preliminary hearing today, according to Walter Dawson, Garrett County state's attorney.

Hoover, who signed a confession Friday admitting that he ran over Layman as the farmer walked along Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg, will be arraigned this morning at 10 a. m. before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, in Oakland, the state's attorney said.

Layman, who Maryland State Police at first believed to be the victim of a hit-run driver, died in Miners Hospital Thursday morning, three hours after he was found lying along the highway by three Webster, Pa., Boy Scouts.

State's Attorney Dawson said Hoover was arrested Thursday afternoon on a hit-run charge, but was later held for investigation after William Payton, proprietor of a service station along Route 40, told police that Layman had fought with Hoover and two brothers, Elmer Harry Hoover, 38, and Albert Lee Hoover, 14, in his place.

The three brothers were arrested together, but Elmer and Albert were released Friday at 5:30 p. m. after James signed a confession admitting that he was the driver of the truck and said his brothers warned him not to strike Layman with the ton-and-a-half truck as he walked along the road.

State's Attorney Dawson said Hoover will be held without bond for the September term of Garrett County Grand Jury which convenes the second Monday in September.

Garrett County Sheriff J. S. Teats said Hoover was still booked as "held for investigation" last night but explained that he had not contacted the State's Attorney to learn what the formal charges would be.

Layman who, according to Hoover in his statement, "threw a haymaker" at the defendant when they met in the beer tavern service station, died in the hospital of a pulmonary hemorrhage resulting from a punctured lung, according to medical examiners.

Hoover now declares, "I'm sorry I done it." The man, who police said earned a living by hauling lumber props to mines in the Jennings section asserted, "I knew the biggest part of what was going on, and it's something that I've done that I wouldn't have done had I not been drinking."

Hoover, who authorities said cannot write, expressed much concern over his wife, who is reportedly ill. He is the father of four children.

Bruce High Junior Dies Of Accidental Gun Shot

Police Say Friend Discharged Shotgun

A 16-year-old Westernport high school student who police said was accidentally shot by a hunting companion, died yesterday at 2:40 p. m. en route to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., according to Maryland State Police.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Charles Pierson Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Welsh, 463 Spruce Street, Westernport, died of an intra-abdominal hemorrhage and a shattered spine in the lumbar region from wounds accidentally inflicted by Roy T. Winters, also 16, Allegany High School student, who was spending the summer with a brother in Rawlings.

Hunting Groundhogs

Cpl. Thomas Veditz, Maryland State Police, said Welsh was shot by his companion as they walked down a section of the Western Maryland Railway track about two and a half miles southwest of Rawlings where they had been hunting groundhogs with Welsh's younger brother, Oran Welsh, Jr., 14.

The Welsh brothers, according to police, left home about 8 a. m. yesterday to visit Winters, a former school chum of the older boy. The three youths embarked on a hunting trip about noon, police said, but after several hours of hunting decided to return home by walking down the tracks.

Welsh was walking about two yards ahead of Winters, who was carrying a 12-gauge shotgun, and his younger brother, police explained, when Winters tripped over a railroad tie.

As Winters fell he threw his left hand up to catch the gun, which he was carrying in his right hand, but he touched the trigger and discharged the gun, according to Cpl. Veditz.

Dr. Deming said the discharge entered Welsh's body above the left hip and penetrated through the abdomen to the lumbar region of the spine. He said the shot did not emerge from the other side.

Welsh's brother ran to the home of G. W. Northcroft, about a half mile up the track to summon help, police said. Northcroft and his brother, H. E. Northcroft, Cumberland, returned to the scene and put the youth in their car to take him to the hospital.

Died En Route To Hospital

Both Winters and Welsh's brother accompanied the wounded youth to the hospital, and the medical examiner said he was told Welsh "made his last gasp for breath," as they crossed the McCoole bridge on the way to the hospital. Attaches said the victim was dead when admitted.

Authorities said they were informed by Welsh's parents, both Celanese of America Corporation employes, that Winters and their son had been school mates at Bruce High School for two years before Winters began attending Allegany High in Cumberland last year.

The three youths, according to police, fired several shots from the gun while they were in the woods, and said a shell was accidentally left in the gun as they started home. Police said Winters had used the gun on previous hunting trips.

Police identified Welsh as a member of the Bruce High School track and soccer teams and said they had been informed by his parents that he took a keen interest in hunting and fishing.

State Police said Winters will be questioned in the office of the State's Attorney this morning.

Besides his parents and brother, Welsh is survived by another brother, Arthur Welsh, 9, a sister, Marguerite Ann Welsh, 7, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welsh, Westernport.

He was a member of the Assembly of God Pentecostal Church, Westernport.

Kelly Union Votes To Continue Talks On 'Vital Issues'

Workers Reject Tenative Contract

Members of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Lineoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, yesterday unanimously voted to have the Negotiating Committee return proposed contract amendments to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and continue negotiations of "certain vital issues."

E. A. Johnson, president of the union and chairman of the Negotiating Committee, declared that he did not feel at liberty to discuss the issues "until after I have informed the company of the members' decision."

Company representatives, according to Johnson, will be given official information of the members' decision this morning. Johnson said he did not know when negotiations will be resumed but declared the union and company representatives will decide on the next meeting this morning.

The proposed contract amendments were submitted to the union membership yesterday after the company and union committee representatives tentatively agreed following six weeks of negotiation.

The amendments were taken up after the present contract which has been in effect since 1941 was permitted to continue by agreement of the company and the union.

The Kelly local began negotiations on some 19 suggested amendments to its present working agreement some six weeks ago, Johnson stated, adding that during the past few meetings three main issues have been under discussion.

The issues were defined as severance pay, vacation and a furlough clause, including the reduction of hours of work before furlough may be placed into effect at the Kelly plant.

Johnson explained that while the issues were referred back for further negotiations no labor trouble is expected to develop over the contract amendments.

Yestrday's meeting, which Johnson said was "well attended," lasted for four hours.

Soil Conservation Service Will Mark 10th Anniversary

The Brown Creek Soil Conservation District, the first farmer-voted and farmer-managed soil conservation district, was organized by farmers of Anson County, North Carolina, 10 years ago today.

During the decade, some 1,900 other districts have been formed by farmers in our 48 states and Puerto Rica, Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, announced.

Dr. Bennett, who was one of the speakers at the Conservation Forum held in Cumberland November 3, 1945, said the action by the Anson County farmers marked the beginning of a movement which can insure the permanence of our nation. It provides, he said, for the permanent security of a basic resource of our nation — productive soil — without which it cannot survive.

Includes Most Farms

The districts now cover more than a billion acres, including 60 per cent of the country's farmland, more than one-half of its total land area and about four and one-half million, or three-fourths of the nation's farms and ranches.

The service has assisted farmers in developing more than half a million farm plans—blueprints for the treatment and use of the land according to its needs and capabilities.

Over 50 different conservation measures are used, including contour tilling and planting, crop rotations, strip covering, terracing, range and pasture treatment, farm woodland management, drainage and irrigation and wildlife improvement.

Operations Begin Here

Allegany County's Soil Conservation District was formed in 1941 and field operations began the following year, according to Philip J. Walter, soil conservationist of the district.

The 210 co-operators in the county are making steady progress in conservation here, reports indicate. Here, as elsewhere, the task is scarcely begun since the job ahead is so tremendous.

Dr. Bennett, in commenting on the anniversary of the service, termed conservation the "way of solving" the land problem, adding the locally organized and managed soil conservation districts, such as Allegany District, can handle the agricultural land of this country in the best interests of the entire nation.

During the past few years, the soil conservation movement has gained an added impetus from the realization on the part of the public of how vital our land resources are to the future of the American nation.

City Police Make Check For Liquor Violations

Officers Blame 3 Robberies On 'Gang'

City Police yesterday declared that they have recovered a stolen car believed to be the one used in three robberies and two breaking and enterings in the city early Saturday morning, according to Assistant Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

Flynn said that investigating officers have received reports that the machine was seen at each of the three places that were robbed, and declared Sgt. R. R. Johnson and himself recovered the stolen car in an alley at the rear of Mary Street Saturday.

The recovered machine, a 1936 Chevrolet coupe was stolen from Gulick's Auto Exchange, 305 South Mechanic Street, according to investigating officers. Flynn said the car still had "used car" license plates on it when recovered.

Police said that statements taken from the proprietors of the three places robbed indicated that approximately $60 was taken during the three breaking and enterings. While the other two places were ransacked, nothing was taken, police said.

The three places where money was taken were listed by police as Liberty Dairy, corner of Fifth and Race Streets; H. V. Courtney's store, 915 Maryland Avenue, and Public Service Market, North George Street.

According to police the Dingle Drug Store, Greene Street, and the Virginia Tavern, 237 Virginia Avenue, were also broken into early Saturday morning.

Flynn said that all the places had been entered by a gang using a small bar to pry open doors and windows. Marks at all the locations were identical, according to officers.

3 Youths Confess

Flynn said three juveniles, two local and a West Virginia boy, admitted to twice breaking into the City Ice and Fuel Company on Thursday night and again Friday night. The youths, according to police, stole $7 the first time and 11 cents the second.

Police said the three youths were released in the custody of their parents after the parents promised to return the money and pay for the damage the youths caused in breaking into the building.

According to Detective Edwin R. Lilya the boys told him they used a "bean shooter" to break a window in the rear of the building through which they entered.

Dr. North, Father Of Md. High School System, Succumbs

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3—(AP)—Dr. Samuel M. North, first Maryland high school supervisor, died today at the age of 78 in the Fort Howard Veterans Hospital where he had been a patient for some time.

Dr. North, a native of Baltimore, was credited generally with establishing Maryland's high school system. He was appointed first supervisor in 1916 and served in the same post, except for service in the First World War, until 1933 when he retired.

Dr. North then joined the faculty of the McDonogh School and taught there for 14 years.

He had degrees from Columbia University and Western Maryland College.

Dr. North started his long teaching career at Polytechnic Institute, staying there from 1898 until 1914 when he was appointed principal of the Reisterstown High School.

He was a former president of the Maryland State Teachers Association, former secretary of the Educational Society of Baltimore and a member of the American Association of School Administrators and the National Education Association.

His widow, Mrs. Francis Doub North, is a teacher at Western High School. He is also survived by a daughter and two brothers.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow and burial will be in Middletown.

Gambling Inspection Made Previously

A three-hour investigation yesterday by City Police of approximately 30 local "clubs" holding liquor licenses failed to reveal one violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Law forbidding Sunday sales, a participating officer disclosed last night.

The inspection, according to the Police Department, followed a check Friday night on civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations to determine if gaming devices were being maintained.

Police officials said Detective Edwin R. Lilya and Sgt. Frank Shober made the inspection using "standing" warrants to enter the clubs.

Officials asserted that the reports of the two officers stated that only four clubs were open at the time of the inspection, but declared a spot check was made later to "satisfy" department heads that the clubs had not closed for a brief period.

"Plainclothes" Probe Rumored

A reliable source declared he was reasonably sure a "tip off" had not preceded the inspection, but said rumors of a "plainclothers investigation" in the city may have been responsible for many of the clubs being closed.

The source said he had no knowledge of the investigation other than the fact that he has heard "street talk" and supposed many of the clubs had heard similar rumors.

In the clubs that were open police reports stated that few persons were patronizing the bars and said "soft drinks" were very much in evidence.

Officials stated that the investigation started at 10 a. m. and continued until all of the clubs listed were inspected, which was about 1 p. m. The investigating officers returned to a few clubs that had not been open during the earlier calls, department officials stated, but the doors were still locked and the clubs void of patrons.

Looked For Slot Machines

The Friday night check was carried out by the same officers who, authorities said, made a thorough check to determine if clubs were maintaining gaming devices. One official said the gaming devices for which the inspectors were watching closest were slot machines.

During the April term of Circuit Court several alleged "slot machine operators" were indicated by the grand jury and subsequently fined on charges of either maintaining, operating or possessing the gamiing devices.

Prior to that time gambling through the media of the slot machine was reported to be rampant in the county, but many sources "close to the easy money groups" declared "gamblers in this area suffered a severe curtailment" which they predicted would last for "some time to come," following the fining of the "operators."

Police last night were reluctant to discuss the inspections of yesterday and Friday, but indicated that gambling and violations of the Alcoholic Beverage Law will be curbed immediately if and when they appear in the city.

Mark McCauley Will Be Sentenced At Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 3 — The West Virginia Supreme Court has reported that no petition has been made for the rehearing of the case of Mark McCauley, who was convicted of the slaying of State Police Sgt. Joseph Horne.

The court handed down a unanimous opinion July 1 denying McCauley a new trial, but the law provides that a petition for rehearing could be filed within 30 days.

The next step will be the sending of a mandate from the Supreme Court to the Mineral County Circuit Court officially notifying the court here that a plea for a new trial has been denied.

Judge Ernest A. See plans to have McCauley brought from the West Virginia Penitentiary back to Keyser for resentencing. The jury verdict did not recommend mercy, leaving Judge See no alternate but to sentence the man to hang.

McCauley's only recourse is a plea for clemency to Governor Clarence W. Meadows.

Judge See said McCauley would be brought to Keyser shortly after the Supreme Court mandate is received here. This should be in the next week or two, he added.

State Will Prefer Murder Charge Against Hoover In Layman's Death

James W. Hoover, 28, Jennings truck driver, who police said admits he deliberately ran over Elzie F. Layman, 49, Garrett Caunty farmer, and left him dying on Route 40, will be charged with murder at a preliminary hearing today, according to Walter Dawson, Garrett County state's attorney.

Hoover, who signed a confession Friday admitting that he ran over Layman as the farmer walked along Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg, will be arraigned this morning at 10 a. m. before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, in Oakland, the state's attorney said.

Layman, who Maryland State Police at first believed to be the victim of a hit-run driver, died in Miners Hospital Thursday morning, three hours after he was found lying along the highway by three Webster, Pa., Boy Scouts.

State's Attorney Dawson said Hoover was arrested Thursday afternoon on a hit-run charge, but was later held for investigation after William Payton, proprietor of a service station along Route 40, told police that Layman had fought with Hoover and two brothers, Elmer Harry Hoover, 38, and Albert Lee Hoover, 14, in his place.

The three brothers were arrested together, but Elmer and Albert were released Friday at 5:30 p. m. after James signed a confession admitting that he was the driver of the truck and said his brothers warned him not to strike Layman with the ton-and-a-half truck as he walked along the road.

State's Attorney Dawson said Hoover will be held without bond for the September term of Garrett County Grand Jury which convenes the second Monday in September.

Garrett County Sheriff J. S. Teats said Hoover was still booked as "held for investigation" last night but explained that he had not contacted the State's Attorney to learn what the formal charges would be.

Layman who, according to Hoover in his statement, "threw a haymaker" at the defendant when they met in the beer tavern service station, died in the hospital of a pulmonary hemorrhage resulting from a punctured lung, according to medical examiners.

Hoover now declares, "I'm sorry I done it." The man, who police said earned a living by hauling lumber props to mines in the Jennings section asserted, "I knew the biggest part of what was going on, and it's something that I've done that I wouldn't have done had I not been drinking."

Hoover, who authorities said cannot write, expressed much concern over his wife, who is reportedly ill. He is the father of four children.
